RAIL SPAN TO GOAT ISLAND IS PLANNED

Key Route System Files Application To Build Vehicular Bridge and Terminal Depot

Time to San Francisco Would Be Cut 10 to 15 Minutes If Project Is Approved; Training School Moving

A rail and vehicular bridge from the Key Route to the northeast corner of Goat Island, a large area of new land to be reclaimed by filling in the shoals off the island, and the establishment of a railroad terminal to be backed by yards and shops on the Oakland waterfront, are included in a plan submitted to the Federal Railroad Administration today by the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railroad Company.

The company has written to the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of War and the Secretary of Commerce, telling of its plans to petition Congress for permission to build the great structure which would answer the rapid transportation question for the bay community. Because recommendations from the three officials would influence the decision of Congress, the plan has been presented. An outline of these details and the plan as described in the letter were given to the TRIBUNE today by W. H. Althoff, general manager of the railway.

Extra Rails for Steam Lines Which Might Wish to Use the Place as a Terminal, and Foreseeing the Time When the Santa Fe Shall have a Terminal Here

Reads for vehicles and slips for ferries to handle the automobile traffic. The reclamation of land off the shoals to the north of the island, where rails may be laid, warehouses built and wharves and slips established.

The cutting of the time between Oakland and San Francisco by ten or fifteen minutes.

In place of significance for the development of the continental side of the bay, for the solution of the rapid transportation question, the plan as the East Bay and San Francisco concerned, and for the bringing of additional railroad terminals to this city, the plans are regarded as of more importance than any announced before. With the possible exception of a definite announcement of huge expenditures for the naval base, engineers and others conceded, the Key Route plans mean more for the city and bay than any other project.

There are a number of reasons advanced for the belief that the government will look approvingly on the plan. In the first place, the plan conforms in general with the idea of Admiral Jayne, who would solve the bay transportation problem with a bridge from Oakland to the island, a tunnel through the island and a ferry for the sort remaining distance. The railroad company's plans do not contemplate a tunnel through Goat Island.

NAVY TRAINING SCHOOL TO BE MOVED.

It is also pointed out that the Navy Department is moving its naval training school off Goat Island, and that no objections will be raised on the grounds of interference with the needs of the navy.

The plan of the direct railway company at this time is designed to have a wide effect on the present bridge-bay plans. Under the Davies-Moody plan, proposed by Oakland and approved by the Federal Railroad Administration, the terminus of the bridge would be south of Hunters Point and beyond the Alameda naval base on the eastern terminus. Travel from the heart of Oakland to the heart of San Francisco over this route, it is pointed out, would occupy more time than by the present ferry system. If the Goat Island bridge is built, however, ten or fifteen minutes will be cut from the bay trip and automobile traffic may use the new route.

DETAILS OF PLAN IN APPLICATION.

All the details of the plans are contained in the application of the company to the three government departments, an application given by General Manager Althoff to the TRIBUNE today. The letter states that the company will petition Congress for the permission to build a bridge from the island to the heart of San Francisco and that in consideration of the fact that recommendations must come to Congress from the Navy, Army and Commerce departments, the petition is also sent there.

There is also a business done by the railway and a brief history and description of the trans- bay transportation service. In 1921 there were 6,534,468 commuters car- rying 1,547,575 passengers. The map showing how the work is to be done, if permission is granted, accompanies the plans and schedule and there follows:

It is now proposed to extend the tracks westward to approximately a straight line to the shoal lying north of Goat Island, and to establish a terminal station near the northwestern corner of the island, from which ferries would run to the San Francisco general ferry terminal, as at present.

Goat Island, together with a zone of three hundred (300) yards wide surrounding it, is the property of the United States. Portions of it are occupied by the three departments of the government addressed for various purposes. Its surface is hilly, rising to the height of 345 feet at the center, and its sides especially

THREE MINUTE TALES

MINDEN MEAT MYSTERY

by AD SCHUSTER

THE town marshal at Minden interrogated the occasional stranger and patrolled a lonely beat. To his vigilance he believed could be credited the fact that there had not been a crime in this community since the half-breed William boy broke into the slot machine at the postoffice office a week he swept out the empty jail and occasionally he acted as clerk in justice court where Judge Winn acted as umpire for disputing neighbors. It is difficult to maintain one's dignity when there is nothing much to do but the town marshal of Minden, abetted by his authority and a star, was equal to the task. The whole town story the better because Tom Allen was standing guard.

Into the village one night there walked a weary and philosophic stranger. "I may have the bum lunch," he mused as he leaned against the side wall of the Palace Meat Market and watched the moon rise at the end of the alley. "But the chances are that this place is so far from the rules, has never been worked by a regular 'bo.' The tramp pictured to himself the housewife of Minden offering him wedges of pie and responding to his best story with the spurs chime from the mantel shelves.

"This is the real stuff," he thought as he noticed an open window. "Now, wouldn't it be a cinch for me to crawl in there and help myself to a steak, or a roast, or a chicken."

It was a little later that a heavy hand fell on the collar of the tramp and jerked him around so that his nose flattened on a nickel-plated star. "Two got you," said the town marshal. "March right along now, and don't make no noise."

He made no noise, but he followed meekly to jail.

MINDEN awakened to a sensation. The station of the Palace Meat Market had been broken into and Tom Allen had captured the burglar red-handed. Before the 9 o'clock alarm arrived there was a person in town who did not know of the details. Tom omitted his morning nap and stayed downtown near the butcher shop where he acted the capture out again and again.

At the preliminary hearing Tom sat at the clerk's desk and held the key to the cell. The courtroom was crowded and it was evident that business in the town had been suspended. On the bench Judge Winn turned the pages of a law book and with innumerable impressive delays made the most of the situation. With a gavel he pointed to his desk.

"The clerk will usher the prisoner into the presence of the court," was his order. The marshal's heels pounding on the board floor made Tom's heart sound in the room. The door slammed and they were heard retreating down the hall. In a few moments the prisoner was led before the court and the citizens of Minden. He stared wonderingly at the large number of persons present, smiled apologetically at the court and sat down.

The story of the burglary of the Palace Meat Market was told to the witness stand by Tom Allen. He started from the time he left his home, told what he had been thinking and arrived at the market. The judge leaned over his desk, the crowd hung on the words and even the tramp was interested.

The prisoner lost the chance to tell all of his story. "I was just leaning against the shack," he said, "when this here bum comes along and pinches me for a bum."

That was as far as the story had progressed when a de-termined man entered the courtroom dragging after him a frightened boy.

"Just a minute, judge, please," the man shouted in a thin voice. "I think we can clear up this here mystery."

"Judge Winn pounded for order, assembled his dignity, and announced, 'If Trustee Watkins has anything to say we will listen, but there ain't any mystery here as the court takes cognizance of it.'"

"Speak up, Eddie, there's a little man," said the one who had interrupted, showing the boy in front of him. The lad's lip trembled and he cast about for a brave reply. "I climbed in the window. I am the one who broke into the shop." He was near tears and the story had to be forced.

"I went in for a piece of liver," he confessed, "it wasn't for nothing else."

Grins spread on the faces of some of the men in the crowd. "What did you want the liver for?"

"If you steal a piece of liver out of a butcher shop in the full of the moon," the boy explained, "it will cure warts."

Taking into consideration the moon in which the tramp laughed, the judge sentenced him to three days for disorderly conduct. Tom Allen is still marshal at Minden. He wears a line of indifference when the boys mention warts.

NAVY YARD FORCES CUT 20 PER CENT

Orders Issued for Suspension of All Advance Work for Vessels Affected by Treaty Reducing Navy Armament

Mare Island Among Places Where Men Will Be Laid Off; 20 Big Guns to Be Scrapped; Ford Will Bid

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Orders have been issued by Secretary Denby for the suspension of all advance work designed for the vessels affected by the Washington arms conference, signed at the Washington arms conference. The effect of the orders, it was said at the department, will be to lay off temporarily those employees who have been engaged on such work.

The yards covered by the order were those at New York, Philadelphia, Norfolk (Va.), South Carolina (W. Va.), Mare Island (Calif.) and possibly Boston.

It was several weeks ago that the family, promised a refuge in Oakland, if they could get here, started north. The trains make that trip from Los Angeles over night.

Automobiles usually take two nights and a day for it. Not many foot-passengers try it, and they only in the sunny part of the year. But Rogers had the nerve to make a winter try of it and Robert, Florence and Lawrence are well, they're chips of the old block. What dad would do, they would do.

Places like Santa Maria, where there are public camp grounds, were their overnight homes as day after day of the gruelling pilgrimage came to an end. At times the weather was kind to them and they could go rapidly by day and sleep comfortably at night. Sometimes the cold would swoop down upon them and they would have to huddle close at night, tucked up together. A week and a half ago, with Oakland still far beyond the horizon, the snow fell. There was no progress that day. They found a sheltering roof and stayed until the snow had passed. Even thereafter the stush the snow had left slowed their progress.

Family of Four Treks From L. A. Here; Hit by Auto

That supple grace, fate, always saves his sharpest barb for the end. In the case of A. H. Rogers and the Rogers family of three children he made no exception. Hence it comes that Lawrence, Florence and Robert, having trekked from Los Angeles here and without a mishap worth the name, today are under a physician's care at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Florence Rogers, of 529 Thirtieth street.

Last night at the east city line Emil Poetz, 1977 Pippin street, ran into the little cavalcade in his automobile. The run was splatting on his windshield and he couldn't see them. Robert was knocked from the roller coaster on which Lawrence was dragging him. Florence was unceremoniously ejected from the roller coaster in which her father was pushing her before him. These two were worst hurt. The attendants at the receiving hospital were afraid for them at first, but it looks now as if they will get along all right.

Lawrence was bruised and scratched. The father was not injured, but the shock of the accident was such that he, too, had to be put to bed.

TWO KILLED BY SLIDE AT POWER SITE

Avalanche at Hetch Hetchy Is Caused by Boulder Being Displaced; Men Crushed to Death in Their Cabins

Report That Discharged Worker Started Rock Down the Mountain Side Under Probe —Local Electrician Victim

John J. Marshall, 2388 East Nineteenth street, an electrician employed at the Hetch Hetchy project, was killed yesterday, and Derick Boyd, a machinist, died today as the result of a rock slide which crushed in the roof of the dining room. The avalanche which swept down the mountain, and which was believed early today might have been precipitated by a huge boulder rolled down the mountain by a discharged workman, hit Camp 2 at the south portal of the Hetch Hetchy tunnel. Marshall was almost instantly killed. Boyd was taken to Grove land where he succumbed today at the county hospital.

The tragedy occurred at noon yesterday while about twenty men were seated at the dining table. Hearing a clatter of rocks on the roof, the men rushed from the cabin just as the mass of snow and rocks began falling over the camp, crushing them through roofs and doing other damage.

Marshall, who was employed as chief electrician, failed to heed the warning in time and was caught in the rock shock by the huge boulder which is believed to have brought the slide down with it after it had been dislodged in some manner from the top of the mountain.

Boyd was asleep in an adjoining cabin and was carried into the river by the mass of rocks that crashed through his shack. The camp is located in a narrow gorge. It will be necessary to abandon part of it until the mass of snow which was carried down is melted.

Marshall leaves a widow in Seattle and a small child. He was married in 1917. His wife, Mrs. Marshall, lives at 2388 East Nineteenth street. When she received word of her husband's death early today she collapsed and is being cared for by neighbors. Boyd was also known as F. W. Berry.

Bribery Charges Probed in L. A. Murder; Filmland's Queens Face Severe Grilling; Gun Clew Unearthed in Taylor Mystery

REVOLVER IN ALLEY FOUND BY MILKMAN

Sleuths On Trail of Pistol Believed To Be One Used To Kill Taylor; Officers Are Working On New Lead

Arrest of a Close Friend of Director Possible; Grand Jury Probe of Mystery Already Being Discussed

By CHARLES E. HUGHES,
International News Service Staff
Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—Trace of a revolver which may have been used by the slayer of William Desmond Taylor, film director, has been found and probably will be turned over to the district attorney's office within a few hours, it was learned today by the International News Service.

The weapon was said to have been found by a man whose name and address is known to investigators, in an alley near the Taylor home the day after the murder.

With a revolver which may have been used by the murderer in their possession, investigators will have the most important clue discovered since Taylor was killed, it was declared.

"NEW LEAD" POINTS TO CLOSE FRIEND OF VICTIM. Detective Sergeant E. B. King, assigned to the district attorney's office, was today at work on a "new lead" which, it was said, may result in the arrest of a man said to have been a close friend of the slain director. King declined to give details of the information concerning the man he was seeking.

It was understood today that the new 1922 grand jury will be impaneled soon at Woolwine's request to take up the Taylor investigation. In connection with this, an attaché of the district attorney's office was questioned as to whether he thought the impaneling of the jury was influenced by the rumors frequently heard by newspapermen that the top of Hollywood's film colony may be blown off.

"No," because the summoning of the jury is only an ordinary procedure in cases of this kind. But, of course, no one knows what the inquiry will develop. However, one thing is certain. This is, that the probe is going to be as thorough as possible.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—The district attorney's office and other agencies investigating the William D. Taylor murder mystery today were abuzz with excitement over a persistent rumor that the "murder gun" would be in custody in a few hours.

Detectives were said to be looking for a milkman who found a revolver near Taylor's bungalow early Thursday morning. The body had not been found at the time, it was said. The milk deliveryman took the gun home with him, intending to turn it in at police headquarters but later, when he heard of the murder, he decided to force his way into the house of being implicated, according to reports. Deputy District Attorney Doran admitted that he had heard the rumor but denied that a report had been made to him by his detectives who were credited with picking up the clew.

"If anyone has a real lead on this thing, it is not my men, despite these stories," Doran insisted.

Spanish Transport Burned; Crew Perish

MADRID, Feb. 9.—(By Associated Press.)—The Spanish transport La Florida, sailing from the island of Mallorca, in the Mediterranean, has been destroyed at sea, says an official announcement today. The ship, carrying a crew of 100, was on board when it was destroyed. The fire was caused by the ignition of gasoline.

Manila-Bound Ship Forced to Turn Back

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—A wireless report today received by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, from a point 1000 miles southwest of Vancouver, in the Pacific ocean, states that the steamer Bessie Dollar of the Robert Dollar Steamship Company had been compelled to return to Vancouver, from which port she sailed recently. The ship was bound for Manila and other ports in the Orient, and there is some speculation among San Francisco and Oakland shipping men as to the cause of the change in her itinerary. At the Robert Dollar Steamship Company offices in San Francisco no further reports had been received which throws any light on the vessel in distress. The members of the crew of the Bessie Dollar all live in San Francisco and Oakland.

MABEL'S LETTERS TO TAYLOR FOUND

Star's Notes Turned Over To District Attorney After Lengthy Search.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—(By Associated Press.)—The letters of Mabel Normand, film actress, to William Desmond Taylor, murdered director, have been found and are in the office of the district attorney.

The letters, for which Miss Normand searched Taylor's apartments vainly, after the inquest last Saturday, were found in a box in a closet in the Taylor home by a party of city detectives, it was said.

The Normand letters, with which there also were said to be several telegrams, have been the center of an investigation for several days, all parties concerned declaring they did not know their whereabouts.

The Normand letters were written, Miss Normand has said, during a long friendship with Taylor. Miss Normand said the letters had been written chiefly from New York, and that her chief desire to recover them was because she feared some of the terms in them might be misconstrued, although it was understood there was no serious love affair between them.

TRANSPORT SET AFIRE IS BELIEF; PROBE STARTED

Northern Pacific Loss to Be Investigated by U. S. Officials; Four Missing.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—An investigation of the origin and circumstances accompanying the fire which yesterday destroyed the former army transport Northern Pacific off the New Jersey coast, was understood today to have been instituted by the government.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Feb. 9.—Survivors of the former transport Northern Pacific, which was burned at sea yesterday with a loss of four lives, are not convinced that the burning of the ship was wholly accidental.

While neither Captain William Lusti, who was in command, nor any member of the crew would make a formal statement concerning the fire, some of the latter declared they suspected foul play. Belief was expressed among the survivors that the fire was the result of some activity on board the vessel before she left her berth at Brooklyn.

One of the three boats picked up by the Transportation contained thirteen men and in the other two were distributed the remainder of those saved, including Captain Lusti, Chief Engineer Clayton and Active Officer Clyde Smith.

The Wylie, bringing five survivors from the Northern Pacific, came in Hampton Roads unannounced last night.

Survivors are at a loss to understand how the Sun Shipyard men lost their lives. The four men were all sleeping near the place where the blaze originated but the crew thinks they had ample time to get out unless they were overcome by smoke.

When Captain Lusti was asked to make a statement regarding the ship, he said he was "fixed" by some one before she left her berth, he quickly demanded to know the origin of the report. On being told that it could not be traced to its source, he declined to answer any and all questions.

Captain Lusti's confidential report to the shipping board was in course of preparation today. The statement is a lengthy one. A conference between Captain Lusti, shipping board officials of this district, officials of the Barbour Steamship Company and officials of the Admiral Line will be held here today.

BRIDGE TO GOAT ISLAND PLANNED BY KEY SYSTEM

Oakland Corporation Files Application With Government For Permit.

on the north and west, are precipitous. The general railway, highway and ferry terminal project now under consideration contemplates no disturbance of the present uses of the island by the government, nor any encroachment upon its usable area. The plan is designed for the reclamation of a portion of the extensive shoal lying north of the island, after harbor lines shall have been established thereon, by authority of the secretary of war, which action and the demarcation of the outer boundary of said 300-yard zone, or other limit of United States ownership, is hereby also requested. The nature of reclamation proposed to be used is that of surrounding the area enclosed within the to be established bulkhead lines, by a loose-rock wall, and filling behind the wall with silt dredged from remaining portions of the shoal. An ample supply of rock for building the wall is available in the precipitous and unusable sides of the island close to the work. The general railway, highway and ferry terminal station and railway yards would be located upon the land so reclaimed, also the small portion of the island that may be leveled by the quarrying operations, and upon pile sub-structures extending between the bulkhead and pierhead lines.

SCOPE OF PERMIT.

"The authority that will be sought from the Congress will embrace the following:

(A) To establish permanent general railway and highway connections between the east shore of the bay of San Francisco and Goat Island and the existing rock-and-earth embankment known as the 'Key System Pier Fill,' at its present width of two hundred (200) feet, to such a distance as the secretary of war may deem proper, thence continuing by means of a trestle or bridge, or both trestle and bridge, of such clear heights and lengths of spans as the secretary of war may prescribe, to Goat Island and the shoal adjoining its northern side.

(B) Also, to fill and reclaim so much of the shoal lying north of Goat Island as shall be bounded by the bulkhead lines, to be established under the direction of the secretary of war, and a corresponding draw around the rocky northern coast of said island at the vertical height of fifteen (15) feet above the zero datum established by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey as the height of mean lower low water in the Bay of San Francisco.

(C) Also, to quarry rock from the high, rocky northern and western sides of Goat Island in such quantities as may be needed for reclaiming and grading the area described in paragraph (B) foregoing, and for building walls of such westward extension of the 'Key System Pier Fill' as may be authorized by the secretary of war.

(D) Also, to occupy and use for purposes of a general railway, highway and ferry terminal such portions of the said shoal as may be reclaimed as provided in paragraph (b) foregoing, and such portions of the island as may be made available by the operations of quarrying rock, as provided in paragraph (c) foregoing.

(E) Also, to construct between the bulkhead line and the pierhead line, when said line has been established under authority of the Secretary of War, all such slips, piers, wharves, buildings and other structures supported upon piles or other types of sub-structures as may be approved under authority of the Secretary of War, that may be necessary or convenient for the operation of a general railway, highway and ferry terminal.

"Very respectfully,
"SAN FRANCISCO-OAKLAND TERMINAL RAILWAYS, By W. R. ALBERGER,
"Vice-President and Gen. Mgr.
"And F. W. PROBST," Secretary.
January 28, 1922."

Legion Club Fund Drive Uncompleted

ALAMEDA, Feb. 9.—Workers are still needed to bring the drive for funds to furnish American Legion headquarters to a successful close. The present force working under the captains assigned to the different districts of the city are finding that the people are responding wholeheartedly. According to E. K. Taylor, chairman of the mayor's committee, if the entire city is to be properly covered, however, by February 15, at which time the drive closes, more collectors will be needed. The committee has set $2000 as a tentative amount necessary for furnishing the headquarters of the Legion and to give a small sum over for upkeep. The money being collected is not in the nature of a memorial, according to the committee, but as a token of appreciation.

Irigoyen Accused Of Perpetuating Job

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 9.—Charges that President Irigoyen is planning to keep himself in power by postponing the national elections, which would otherwise be held on April 2, are made by leaders of the opposition parties. There is a constitutional prohibition against a president succeeding himself in office but President Irigoyen's opponents allege that he intends to evade it by delaying the election by some manufactured excuse. They see proof of their charges in the fact that the Radical party, which has failed to announce a date for its convention to nominate a presidential candidate. They openly say that the Radical party plans to continue the delay and that no candidate will be nominated.

MERGER OF COAST SHIP LINES OPENS TRADE CAMPAIGN

Administration Hopes to Place U. S. on Parity With Others in Orient Commerce.

By WEBSTER K. NOLAN,
International News Service Staff
Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Merger of the greater Pacific Coast steamship lines into one parent company with the individual companies holding priority stock and the general public buying in to the extent of 44 per cent is designed by the administration to place American commerce in Pacific waters on a parity with the enterprises of Japan and Great Britain.

The plan is the first step in what is generally described as a "great, peaceful international shipping war," designed to restore American shipping to its old time position. Having insured the peace of the Pacific and the open door in China through the armament conference, the United States now intends to step out and bid for an even split in the commerce of the Pacific and the Far East.

Officials of the shipping board informed the International News Service that if the Pacific coast merger succeeds the same plan will be applied to the Gulf district and later to the Atlantic, where Great Britain's supremacy will be challenged. The projected parent company, designated as a master marine corporation, would operate under the projected government subsidy.

AMERICA LEADER IN CHILD HYGIENE, EXPERT DECLARES

Secretary of National Organization Speaks At Luncheon At Local Hotel.

No country in the world is so far advanced in the child welfare movement as the United States, according to Miss Sally Lucas Jean, executive secretary of the Child Hygiene Organization of America, addressing social workers, health experts, teachers and mothers at a luncheon at the Hotel Oakland yesterday. Miss Jean gave one day of her tour of the country to a survey of Oakland's health program for the children.

"Ninety per cent of the school children of this nation do not clean their teeth; 50 per cent of the children do not drink milk," the national expert declared. "The children in the schools are not better physically than the children in the slums."

"Play the game of health," Miss Jean urged the several score men and women gathered to hear her. "Catch the child's imagination. Lead him to see that by doing certain simple things he may become big, strong, radiant in health."

The Child Hygiene Organization was the originator of the Health Fairy and the Health Clown, the clown movement.

Mrs. F. C. Turner, chairman of the baby hygiene committee, American Association of University Women, presided.

Throughout the dramatic incidents of the plot that involve the human characters of the story, runs the thread of the life of Strongheart, the cross pull between the wolf and the dog natures in him, his final mastery of the former and his vindication in the eyes of all, because of his heroism in rescuing the hero and the heroine from the danger that confronts them. The following moving picture stars are also in the cast: John Bowers, William Dyer, James Mason and Kathryn McGuire, the heroine of the play. You can not afford to miss this wonderful moving picture.

An special feature to the party every boy and girl attending will be presented with a valentine as they enter the theater. LIQUOR FIGURES IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Chief of Police James T. Drew today promised to start a rigid investigation to determine whether liquor was sold to Mary "Billie" Newell, a cafe entertainer, just prior to her death leap from an automobile on Monday morning.

At the inquest which was conducted by Coroner Grant D. Miller, evidence was introduced which showed that Miss Newell was given liquor to drink in two bootlegging establishments.

The jury yesterday requested that a copy of the verdict be sent to the chief of police and to the dry enforcement officers in San Francisco. Coroner Miller said that copies of the verdict had not been mailed because he left town following the inquest.

Miss Newell jumped from an automobile which was being driven by William E. Heathorne, a traveling salesman. The accident occurred at Twenty-fourth and Market streets.

In the verdict the jury requested that some action be taken against houses at 419 Nineteenth street and 877 Twenty-third street.

APPEAL IS FILED

RICHMOND, Feb. 9.—W. W. Cottingham of this city filed an appeal Wednesday in superior court from a judgment rendered against him for $185 in favor of H. O. Harrison Company of San Francisco by Justice John B. Roth. The company claims Cottingham owes $185 on an automobile.

What's Happening in the Motor World

F. H. Dalley Motor company has purchased the Oakland branch of the Lou H. Rose company, Maxwell and Chalmers distributors, and will operate the local establishment from now on.

This is the news which comes from Don Shortz, manager of the firm here.

Dalley has until recently been in the motor car business in Napa, and then went to San Francisco. He is well known in the northern part of the state and has made a host of friends.

"Dalley was so well 'sold' on the Maxwell and Chalmers line that he decided to secure the best agency he could find," says Shortz, "and picked Oakland as an ideal location for motor car business in this part of the state."

"Dalley had a long conference with H. Rose in San Francisco and induced Rose to sell him the Oakland establishment."

"We will maintain the same crew that is now handling the Maxwell, Chalmers lines, and will improve and amplify our service department at once," Dalley announced.

"A little over a year ago the Maxwell-Chalmers factory was reorganized and expert designers of automobiles were employed. For over a year they have been developing the new Maxwell and Chalmers models which made such a hit at the national shows."

"There will be no changes in the personnel of the organization and we will continue the aggressive sales policy established by Don Shortz," Dalley further stated.

"Shortz will have complete charge, and will have all of Alameda and Contra Costa counties as his territory for sales."

This change is one of the most important ever made in the Eastbay district and has caused a great deal of comment up and down the row.

LIGHTNING HITS GOVERNOR'S HOME, FIRES BUILDING

Stephens' Mansion At Sacramento Is Saved By Fire Department.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 9.—A bolt of lightning struck the governor's mansion here at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, firing a cupola of the building, known as the "tower" and exploding telephone wires in the house below.

No one was injured and the blaze was extinguished by the fire department before it had gained material headway.

Governor W. D. Stephens was at his office, but both Mrs. Stephens and her daughter, Mrs. John S. Osborn, were in the library of the mansion when the electric storm swept down upon the gubernatorial residence.

Neither Mrs. Stephens nor her daughter realized that the executive home had been struck until the fire alarm had been turned in by watchmen below.

INCIDENT DESCRIBED.

Mrs. Osborn gave the following account of the incident:

"Mrs. Stephens and I were reading in the library when the storm started. As it gained in fury we sat by a window and watched the streaks of lightning as they flashed across the sky.

"Suddenly the room was brilliantly lighted as if by a powerful searchlight. I turned around just in time to see the lightning run down the wires leading to the telephone. There was a flash in the room and the wires exploded with a bang near the ground outside of the house."

HAIL HITS CITY.

Hailstones measuring also a half inch in diameter peppered Sacramento yesterday during one of the most severe storms experienced in California in many years, according to N. R. Taylor, United States weather observer.

The storm was accompanied by torrents of rain, flashes of lightning and peals of thunder. More than a half inch of hail fell. The storm lasted ten minutes, the precipitation measuring 1.9 of an inch.

POPE PIUS SENDS HIS GREETING TO UNITED STATES

Plans For Pontifical Coronation Sunday Curtailed Because of Cold.

ROME, Feb. 9.—(By the Associated Press).—The cold wave which is the severest in years, accompanied by snow, has forced a modification of the coronation ceremonies Sunday, when Pope Pius XI will receive the triple crown. It will necessitate the passing of the pontiff into the basilica without the customary ceremonial of the facade before the huge bronze door, when Cardinal Merry del Val, as archbishop of St. Peter's, makes formal obeisance to the pope.

Instead, his holiness will enter immediately into the chapel of the Holy Sacrament, where the late Pope Benedict lay in state. There Cardinal Merry del Val will render homage to the pontiff, who descends from the papal chair, borne on the shoulders of the red-cloaked ushers.

The pope personally ordered this modification because of the serious consequences on account of the cold which might follow if the pontifical procession were held in the open facade.

TO BREAK CUSTOM.

It was announced in some quarters that His Holiness, after being crowned, intended to appear in the facade of St. Peter's, wearing the tunic and bestow the benediction on the throngs unable to gain admission. He would thus break the custom followed by his three predecessors, who after the split with the Italian government never appeared on the facade. This rumored innovation is authoritatively denied.

His Holiness received several members of the sacred college and also a member of diplomatic representation. There is a crowd constantly within the Vatican, all seeking tickets for the coronation, long lines wait for hours at the major domo's offices.

Further details of the proceedings in the conclave show that the first ballots were divided between two contending factions, under Cardinal Gasparri and Cardinal Merry del Val. The support of the former group was divided in the initial voting on Gasparri and Maffi, and the support of the latter on Merry del Val and La Fontaine.

Cardinal Gasparri on Sunday realized that there was a deadlock, and

Oldest Indian Is Buried Without Pagan Ceremony

(By Associated Press)

CASS LAKE, Minn., Feb. 9.—The body of Ca-Bee-Nah, Gown-Wone, America's oldest Indian, and probably the oldest man on earth, was interred here today following simple services, according to the white man's creed, and with none of the pagan rites of his tribe. He was in his 138th year at the time of his death. He died Tuesday from pneumonia.

During the funeral ceremony all stores, schools and factories were closed and citizens joined with Indians from all parts of the north-west to pay their respects to the Chippewa chieftain who had attained almost twice the allotted span of human life.

The body was enclosed in a rough wooden box, according to his expressed wish, and the chief mourner was Tom Smith, an adopted son.

Throughout his life John Smith, as he was also known, had been a leader among his people and during recent years a national character. One of the great acts of service to his tribe was the part he took in the formulating of the original treaty between the Chippewas and white men in 1842.

With unerring accuracy he told of the Pike expedition in the upper Mississippi country in 1804, when he first came to the Mississippi in a canoe to make his home in the north country.

When William McKinley was inaugurated president, John participated in the ceremonies at Washington.

Cardinal Maffi urged his supporters and those of Gasparri to turn their support to Cardinal Ratti. On Monday's ballot Cardinal Ratti was chosen.

MESSAGE TO U. S.

Pope Pius XI has given Cardinal O'Connell of Boston the following message to be sent through the Associated Press to the American people:

"All the American people I send them my very sincere and affectionate blessing and that I shall always have at heart their prosperity and welfare. I beg your benediction to let the United States know that all my life I have felt the most sincere admiration for that young and vigorous nation.

I have read very much about America and have often wished to be able to see that marvelous country. But now, of course, that can never happen. But still I am consoled to think that I can welcome Americans to Rome."

"My one great desire is to help re-establish peace and harmony among all nations. The conference at Washington, a accomplishment so much toward the pacification of the world. America has shown herself most unselfish both during and since the war. God bless her for that. She seems never to want anything for herself except that it is justly hers. At the same time she is always helping the old nations of Europe, which today, more than ever, need her co-operation. God bless your country and your people."

Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia and Cardinal Begin of Quebec reached Rome today from Paris. Neither expected to arrive in Rome in time for participating in the election of the new pope, but they will attend the coronation of Pope Pius next Sunday.

HEARING OPENS IN $50,000,000 GASOLINE SUIT

Damages Asked of Standard Oil Co. in Process Used To Convert Crude Oil.

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 9.—Holmes Hall of Sedalia, Mo., master to chancery, began taking testimony here in the suit of the Universal Oil Products Company against the Standard Oil Company of Indiana to restrain the defendant from using the William Burton process for distilling gasoline from crude petroleum and for damages for alleged infringement of patent, estimated to amount to $50,000,000.

The Universal Company, said to be heavily backed by J. Ogden Armour, bases its claim for exclusive rights to the process on the ground that it acquired the invention of the late Jesse A. Burton for demulsifying crude oil, which was first used in 1909 on the Rice Ranch oil lease in the north part of this country.

It is claimed that through the process employed by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and licensed for use by a few other companies fifty per cent of the crude oil can be converted into gasoline, while under the old processes but from five to ten per cent of the volume of crude oil was recoverable as gasoline.

The suit was filed two years ago in the United States district court in Kansas City.

Prohibition a Farce, Club Woman States

Characterizing prohibition as a farce and declaring that it is creating a nation of lawbreakers, Mrs. Rosalie Rooney, organizer and president of the Woman's National Association for Personal Liberty, announces her intention of launching a state-wide campaign on behalf of an amendment to the Volstead act. Mrs. Rooney led the "wet" parade in June, 1919, through the streets of Baltimore, in which she was joined by 25,000 men and women. She is a San Francisco woman. She claims the support of many of the prominent families in California.

"Our organization is openly and frankly opposed to prohibition," explains its president. "We do not favor the saloon and its attendant evils. We believe the majority of the men and women voters of this country favor beer and light wines."

A GENUINE IMPORTED FACE POWDER FOR 50c

Comes From France

For some reason France is able to produce the most satisfactory face preparations and perfumes of any in all the world. The cost of duty, transportation, plus the profit of the importers, the brokers, and the jobbers make most French merchandise expensive.

We have a face powder, however, that comes from France which we are able to sell for about the price of the best American grades.

It is Precade Face Powder and sells at 50c a box. We have it in flesh, pink, white, and brunette.

Precade Face Powder is brought to this country by Bowman's in bulk and it is boxed in America. This saves a large amount in duty and transportation charges and gives you the superior imported quality at a very reasonable price.

We have been selling Precade Face Powder for many years and customers who try it seem to be most pleased that they use it continually thereafter.

GOOD INEXPENSIVE LETTER PAPER

Most women have frequent use for inexpensive stationery. It is not always necessary to use ways necessary.

The best moderately priced writing paper that we know of is Eaton's Highland Line, which is now back to its old price of 50c a box.

This is an attractive linen finish paper with the envelopes in the new shapes. We have a good assortment of colors.

ALARM CLOCKS

If you can't get 'em up in the mornings why don't you buy a good alarm clock?

We have, at the present time, the biggest assortment of Alarm Clocks we ever carried. These alarm clocks are considerably cheaper than they were a few months ago and we have them in all sizes from boudoir clocks and small desk clocks to the full size ordinary alarms. Our prices range from $1.25 to $4.75.

A HOT WATER BOTTLE WITH LOTS OF BOOSTERS

You would be surprised if you knew the number of people who come into our store with a good word for Lynwood Hot Water Bottles.

Those who have had experience with other brands of hot water bottles (some of them costing more than Lynwood) are quick to appreciate the unusual quality of the Lynwood brand.

Two-quart size, $2.00. 50c the bottle.

AGENTS FOR WATERMAN FOUNTAIN PENS

As agents of Waterman Fountain Pens, we naturally carry an unusually complete stock of Waterman products.

We also have in our employ an expert Waterman mechanic who thoroughly understands how to make all repairs and adjustments, consequent upon the use of a Waterman, the best thing to do is to come direct to us and have our expert look over your pen every once in a while even if it seems to be working satisfactorily.

Of course we have Waterman Fountain Pens in every model and style made by the company from the $2.50 kind up to the $25.00 style.

It is interesting to know that the Waterman Fountain Pen Company is still selling Waterman Pens at "before the war" prices.

AN UNUSUALLY FINE TALCUM POWDER

A True Violet Odor

Several years ago we instructed our manufacturing department to produce for us a talcum powder superior in quality to anything then on the market. We had had a number of calls for a better kind and felt that there was a sufficient demand to warrant the manufacture of something better than the average.

The result was the introduction of Bowman's Vergo Violet Talcum. At that time most talcums were selling at 15c a can. On account of the quality of Vergo Violet we were compelled to ask 25c a can.

Our customers readily paid the difference and joyously sang the praises of the new talcum. Since that time 25c has become a popular price of all talcums, so that today Vergo Violet in spite of its superior quality costs no more than the ordinary kind.

It is a true Violet odor and is sold with the understanding that if you do not find it absolutely satisfactory you can get your money back.

A FINE CLEANING PREPARATION

Have you ever tried Klenzol to clean the spots off your clothes?

Klenzol is a non-inflammable spot remover that evaporates immediately and does not hurt the most delicate fabrics.

In order to remove a stain it is usually necessary to apply only a small portion of Klenzol which seems to absorb the stain. Klenzol requires almost no rubbing and it can be used upon the most delicate fabric.

For 25c you can get a good sized bottle and by its use you will have less trouble with grease spots than you ever had before.

KEWPIES FOR VALENTINES

Valentine's Day comes next Tuesday.

Kewpie makes a better Valentine than a kerpie. We have them of all kinds and all sizes from 10c to $1.95 each.

This afternoon Mrs. Durant was the honoree at a luncheon which Mrs. Henry Rosenfeldt gave at the Hotel St. Francis for a coterie of intimate friends from both sides of the bay.

In the near future several informal affairs will be given before her departure for the south.

An informal tea is to be given Wednesday by Miss Helen Kinsell at her home in Vernon Heights in compliment to Mrs. Herman Frank Swartz of Montclair, New Jersey. CARDS OUT FOR AT HOME.

Miss Zelma Stiles McDougough has sent out cards for an at home at the Berkeley Piano club, 2724 Haste street, from 4 to 6 o'clock February 18. The afternoon is planned in compliment to a bride-elect, Miss Gladys Partridge of Berkeley.

The presence of many visitors from the bay region was the occasion for a gala snow carnival in Yosemite national park last week-end. Among the spectators were Mr. and Mrs. Madison Ralph Jones and their three sons of Oakland, who arrived on a special train with the Fairmont hotel party, with Le Roy Linnard. All sorts of races and games were played in the snow. Mr. Linnard took first prize in the snowshoe race for visitors only. Mrs. Madison E. Hart was first in the snowshoe race for visiting ladies, and Miss Virginia Wallis was given a special prize for the best all-around competition. Madison R. Jones, Jr. of Oakland, ran a race in the snowshoe event for youngsters, but lost to one of the valley children, all of whom are very adept in handling "webs." Hjalmar Gustafson, of Copenhagen, won the long ski race. Spectacular features of the carnival included a horse race in the snow by park Rangers and a genuine snow battle with the opposing sides in real trenches from which they went "over the top" for fighting at close range. Lincoln's birthday and Washington's birthday will attract large crowds to the valley.

U. C. Man To Reveal Mystery of Vitamine

Dr. Meyer E. Jaffe of the University of California will explain the mystery of the vitamine before the Optimist club at Hotel Oakland tomorrow noon.

Dr. Jaffe will explain the vitamine, show how it performs in the human system and tell why a family should be without one.

The main point in his argument will be that vitamins of the best grade are found in food and not in patent medicines.

Social Service Club to Aid Charity Work

By EDNA B. KINARD.

Education is not alone books and classroom. As education is understood today it is service and practical application of the ideals which books and classrooms give. A resume of a meeting of the children's committee of the Associated Charities, of which Dr. Susan Fulton is chairman, stresses this fact.

A social service club has been organized in Oakland Technical high school, made up of young women who are eager to lend their energies to some worthwhile service. Every Tuesday finds their representatives in the Associated Charities headquarters, preparing the social history cards of the young patients who will attend the public health center the following day. Mrs. F. L. Burkhalter is chairman of this section.

A project whereby the girls registered in the home economics departments of the Junior high schools will undertake to outfit a ward of the Associated Charities for a year, providing all the sewing necessary, has been suggested by Miss Florence McCutcheon. Ways and means of financing the materials are under consideration.

A special care of foster children in the public playgrounds is also being arranged for by the children's committee.

Volunteers who are willing to chaperone the children to the clinics is one of the large needs of the body which is looking out after the 300 children under the care of the charities.

Clothing has been contributed to the department during the past month by Glenview, Oakland, Park Boulevard, Lakeview clubs, Piedmont high school and Piedmont Interdenominational church.

"Fathers' Night," prompted by an ambition to write a 100 per cent enrollment in the club, is announced by Jefferson School Parent-Teacher Association for Thursday, February 16. Superintendent of Schools Fred M. Hunter; Mrs. F. J. Kramer, president of Oakland Federation; C. E. CHICO SUGGESTS ITS HUGE OAK AS W. O. W. EMBLEM

CHICO, Feb. 9.—An oak tree whose age is estimated to exceed 1000 years and under whose prodigious branches General William Tecumseh Sherman estimated an army of 2000 could stand, has been proposed by people of this city as the emblem of the Woodmen of the World. The tree is not far from here. A proposal to this effect has been made to the head camp of the order at Denver, Colorado.

The tree was named after Sir Thomas Hooker, noted English naturalist, who in 1877, after close examination and considerable study, pronounced it larger than any of the wondrous oaks for which England is famed. Sir Thomas said the tree was more than ten centuries old. It is more than 100 feet high and its circumference eight feet above the ground is 214-10 feet. Its longest branch extends away from the trunk for 105 feet. From north to south its branches extend an even 200 feet. The greatest circumference of its outside branches is said to be 400 feet.

"Play Ball" made a great hit when it was put on the market late last year. No other ball game so nearly resembles the actual game as this, is so appealing to the baseball fan, or shows so many critical baseball situations in the real baseball "lingo." The players actually travel around the bases as in an actual game, are governed by the same rules, and the result is just as uncertain as in a regular game. Can be played in-doors and out—your mother, dad, sister and brother will all enjoy the fascinating "PLAY BALL" game. Follow the "big league" schedule by playing "Play Ball" at home in the evenings.

DOCTOR ORDERED WOMAN OBEYED
Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and is Now Well

Chicago, Illinois.—"You surely gave women one good medicine when you put Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on the market. After I had my baby I was all run down and so nervous it kept me from doing my housework. My doctor did everything he could to build me up, then he ordered me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with his medicine and I am now a new woman. I have had three children and they are all Lydia E. Pinkham babies. I have recommended your medicine to several friends and they speak highly of it. You are certainly doing good work in this world."

—Mrs. Adah Tombsch, 10667 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

There is nothing very strange about the doctor directing Mrs. Tombsch to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. There are many physicians who do recommend it and highly appreciate its value.

Women who are nervous, run down, and suffering from various ailments should give this well-known root and herb medicine a trial. Mrs. Tombsch's experience should guide you towards health.

ADVERTISE TO MEET DROP IN PRICES, ADVICE

Lious Told How to Remedy Failing Business by Hardware Expert

One of the ways to meet the problem of the declining prices of today is to inaugurate a more aggressive plan of advertising, and to make a more exhaustive study of salesmanship with quick turnovers.

This was the advice given the Lions club yesterday at that organization's weekly luncheon, presided over by Edgar H. Barber, vice-president, by John W. Gorb, director of research of the Cyclone Fence company, who is touring the country in the interests of the Hardware Dealers' Association. His subject was "Economics as Applied to Everyday Business."

Gorb attacked the farmers' bloc at Washington, and declared that the movement was an attempt to put a farmer at the head of the Federal Reserve Board.

"The farmer is not the man for that job," he declared. "What does a farmer know about our banking system? America has not yet come to realize and appreciate the service the bankers of the country rendered us during the war."

The speaker declared that with the present financial system there need be no fear of a crushing panic in the future. He lauded the bankers and financiers throughout the country for their work in perfecting the financial system of today, and declared it the greatest system of the kind to be found anywhere in the world.

Musical numbers were furnished by the following: Mrs. Mary Bond, soloist; Mrs. Minerva and the Century trio, with Jack Russell, were the entertainers.

The meeting was adjourned in honor of Walter Hesse, a member of the club, who died yesterday.

March 6 was set as the date for the ordinance to become effective.

Both the men were treated at the Emergency hospital for cuts about the face. They were arrested at Seventh and Henry streets.

SCENARIO STORY CAN BE RELATED IN A FEW WORDS

Entire Plot of "The Gilded Lily" Given in Four Paragraphs.

That a scenario story can be told in a very few words is well illustrated by the following synopsis of "The Gilded Lily," the play made famous by Max Murray. She gives up her place at the club and redecorates her apartment that they may be in keeping with the quiet life she hopes to lead, but she makes it plain that it was her gilded life that she wanted, not the woman's heart. She promises to go back to the fleshpots with him.

The next day while dressed in her evening gown, Thompson's mother surprises her and offers her money to break the engagement with Frank. Angered by the mother's attitude she vows to do all she can to hold Frank.

She plunges back into the old life with all her vigor and returns to the Cafe Royal. She dances and collapses on the floor. Howard takes her home—not to a gorgeous apartment, but to his own white-haired mother's home!

Mrs. Mae Martin Grass—You retain all rights in your scenario story and it will be disposed of in case it should not win a prize. You can call for it.

Mrs. D. E. Long—You do not have to enclose a cast of characters, but should give a title to your scenario story.

Contestant—The judges in the TRIBUNE'S scenario story contest are the most prominent men in the motion picture industry. The names of the authors mean nothing to them as they will judge strictly on merit. The TRIBUNE also believes that its readers have faith in its responsibility. There will be absolute fairness in the conduct and judgment of this contest, whether the names of the authors are submitted to the judges or not.

Mrs. William Brown Lee—Count your scenario story word by word. R. W. Williams—You have nothing to do with the number of reels. Keep your scenario story within the 2000 word limit. Studios often purchase plays from the outside.

Saida Browne—You may use Rincon hill setting and any characters you desire.

FARM BLOC WINS ON COOPERATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Passage by the Senate of the House cooperative marketing bill by a vote of 58 to 31, was viewed by many today as the most sweeping victory yet attained by the farm bloc.

Before passing late yesterday the House measure which related to farmers' co-operative associations from the application of laws prohibiting trusts or unfair business practices and places authority to determine when such acts have been committed with the secretary of agriculture, the Senate rejected by a vote of 54 to 36 the bill reported by its own judiciary committee, which would have held the associations amenable to present laws.

The single opening vote on the bill in the Senate was cast by Senator Gerry, Democrat, Rhode Island. The votes of two other senators, Brandegee, Republican, Connecticut, and King, Democrat, Utah, who were paired against the bill, were withheld. The measure now goes to conference for adjustment of differences with the House.

U. C. Girl To Play "Agrippina" Sought

BERKELEY, Feb. 9.—From 4000 women students at the university Director George E. Lash has been unable to secure one "heavy" for the English Club play which will be staged in the Greek theater in April. The part which is preventing the casting of the play is that of Agrippina, mother of Nero.

Stephen Phillips' play of that name, and after a special rehearsal for the "tall brunettes" today the director announced that no one had been found to fill the role.

The selection of the play has been referred back to the faculty committee appointed by President David P. Barrows, and another production may be selected which will lend itself more readily to a college cast.

Noblewomen in Need Seek Jobs As Secretaries

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

GENEVA, Feb. 9.—An indication of the straits in which many European noblewomen find themselves after the war is given in the experience of the American wife of a Geneva banker, who advertised recently in a Munich newspaper for an educated woman secretary with a good knowledge of languages.

The banker's wife offered a salary of 300 Swiss francs monthly, in addition to a comfortable home, and thus far she has received more than 1500 replies, from all parts of Germany and Austria.

The applicants include three princesses, nine baronesses and thirty countesses, but the majority are widows or daughters of former high officials, many of them asking only for a home.

Natives of Alsace and Lorraine were never allowed to work on German railways.

The police say that John "Red" May, Bakersfield high school football star, was driving Chain's car at the time of the accident. Chain and Frank Merlega, a school mate, were passengers.

Chief of Police James T. Drew to duty suspended for 30 days. Policemen Fred W. Burbank and S. S. Britt on charges of misconduct and neglect of duty.

The action of Chief Drew, approved by Commissioner Frank C. Bourn, followed investigations at which both men denied the charges made against them by the chief.

Burbank is accused of dancing in the orphanage at 10 o'clock on Tuesday evening when he should have been on duty at the Flying Circus nearby. This happened last Sunday afternoon, according to the chief.

Britt is accused of drinking liquor in a soft drink establishment on December 12, in company with two men and several women, when he was supposed to be on duty. The two suspensions take effect at once.

Husband Gambles, Says Wife's Sui

Gambling interfered so much with her husband's business that he gave up the business and devoted his entire time to cards, declared Mrs. Gertrude Leadley in a divorce suit filed today against Raymond Leadley, an accountant. As a result, she says, she experienced the humiliation of being known as the wife of a professional gambler. Before her husband gave up his last job a year ago Mrs. Leadley asserts, he gambled away a month's salary while she lay ill in a local hospital. She also filed today a suit to be granted custody of her health. She asks custody of two children, Frederick and Carol, and a $100 a month alimony.

JAPANESE INFLUY MENACE TO PEACE, McClatchy Told CONGRESS TOLED

Sacramento Publisher Says
"Gentlemen's Agreement"
Should Be Canceled.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEARNER WITH TRIBUNE.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—If friendly relations with Japan are to be maintained the United States government "must effectually stop the continued admission of Japanese and the rapid increase of Japanese population," V. S. McClatchy, publisher of the Sacramento, Cal., Bee, declared in a statement today before the House Immigration Committee. Urging federal action along the lines approved by the California legislature in its memorial to congress last year, Mr. McClatchy declared the "gentlemen's agreement" between this country and Japan "should be canceled as falling to carry out the purpose for which it was made, and this country should, by treaty or proper legislation, accomplish the intent of that agreement as clearly set out by President Roosevelt, under whom it was made."

Although immigration from other countries has been sharply curtailed under the percentage immigration act, McClatchy said, approximately 6500 Japanese have been permitted to come into the United States under the agreement since that legislation went into effect.

EXCURSION BRIDES.
While the immigration of Japanese "picture brides" has been stopped, "in deference to public protest," he said, there are now coming to this country "in still greater numbers" what he describes as "excursion brides." These he declared are "urged to beget" children in order that the Tamato race be permanently established on this continent.

Mr. McClatchy asserted the Japanese in this country were "maintaining here a government within a government most dangerous to American institutions." The citizenship of those born here is being "utilized largely for purposes of the 'picture bride' law." Thousands of the 50,000 claiming rights as American citizens by registration up to last year only 73 had applied for expatriation from Japan, and only 41 had been granted it. Thousands are being "lost for loyalty to this country," Mr. McClatchy asserted, by returning to Japan at an early age to be educated there and later to re-enter this country.

BIRTH STATISTICS.
He said there were nearly 10,000 Japanese in this country. He said now temporarily resident in Japan and between 10,000 and 15,000 who were born in California.

McClatchy declared the last census enumeration of Japanese in California was many thousands short even of the acknowledged incomplete returns secured by the Japanese government under the Japanese government. They are increasing by reproduction, he said, "ten times as fast as the whites."

Asserting it was made clear beyond any misunderstanding not only his published utterances, but in his private conversations, that he was under whose administration the "gentlemen's agreement" was entered into, intended that it if it did not effectually stop the entry of Japanese into this country, the government would "keep them out by an exclusion act." Mr. McClatchy declared the State of California had the right to demand that the government carry out the agreement which he said was made with the state to that effect.

He maintained that the assurances given the State by President Roosevelt in his message to the legislature in January, 1908, regarding the admission of the Japanese school question, should not be considered as superseded by the commercial treaty concluded with Japan by President Taft in 1911, although this he said, had surrendered the "so-called" President Roosevelt's "express understanding" with Japan regarding the alternative of exclusion if the agreement proved ineffective.

Successful Business
Women To Be Heard

What are the requirements of a successful business woman will be the general subject of the annual opportunity week, which will be observed February 27, 28 and March 1, by the Business Girls' Club and the Business Women's Association of the Young Women's Christian Association. Miss Nell Cowley and Miss Gladys Girard are arranging the programs, which will introduce many of the successful business women of the city.

Next week's drill will be a review of the evolutions taught in the first three lessons.

May 1 Is Set For Mrs. Clark's Trial

A compromise between attorneys for the prosecution and the defense today resulted in the setting of May 1 as the date for Mrs. Virginia Clark's second trial for the alleged murder of her husband.

Attorney C. A. McGee, for Mrs. Clark, urged that her trial be held as early as possible. District Attorney Decoto pointed out that he had several murder cases to try ahead of Mrs. Clark and insisted that May 1 was the earliest date that he could set up her case. He finally agreed to "split the difference" and set the trial for May 1.

Mrs. Clark, who was once sentenced to life imprisonment for the alleged murder of Chester Clark, appeared in excellent spirits when she was taken before Superior Judge Church today. She has asserted that she gained several pounds in weight during her years of incarceration in San Quentin.

Mrs. Clark is expected to base her defense upon a plea of insanity. She owes her retrial to the fact that an alleged suicide attempt obtained from her by the police was held by the state supreme court to have been unwarrantedly admitted as evidence in her first trial.

A jury was sworn in, the accused's statement made, four prosecution witnesses examined in half an hour. The defendant had to be questioned through an interpreter, which delayed the proceedings, but the trial was completed in one hour and 16 minutes. In three minutes Archibald was convicted by a jury which only tarried long enough to elect a foreman.

DARING WOMAN CROOK HUNTED AS HOUSE LOOTER

Aged Invalid Forced to Watch
Marauder Ransack
Home.

SAN JOSE, Feb. 9.—Search, started last night by local police for an extremely daring and unique woman criminal who staged a most extraordinary residence burglary here yesterday with the aid of a young man, was being continued today, police and sheriff's officers joining hands in the widespread hunt for the woman.

Speculation as to her possible identity and condition was rife today, officers scouting the theory that the woman is insane. They base their conclusion that the burglarette is not a lunatic on the fact that she is accompanied by the mysterious young man whose only task was that of "lookout."

The mysterious woman yesterday afternoon, accompanied by her male companion, entered the home of Mrs. Claire Landis, 232 East Empire street, proceeded to ransack the place in view of Mrs. Elmer Riley, 86-year-old mother of Mrs. Landis, insulted the latter and then made herself at home, using toilet articles to prepare herself for the street by pinning her hair and powdering her face.

In ransacking the Landis home the strange female burglar did malicious damage estimated at more than $100. Following the refusal of the terrified Mrs. Riley to tell where money was supposedly hidden in the house, the woman proceeded to take a knife and rip open all of the mattresses and pillows in the house, after which she pulled up carpets and rugs and battered furniture.

The woman next searched aged Mrs. Riley, taking one dollar from the elderly woman, for which she was rewarded by a scolding.

The extraordinary burglarette remained for more than an hour in the Landis home. On three occasions when the telephone rang she casually answered, informing callers that Mrs. Landis was out and would not return until evening.

During all of this time aged Mrs. Riley, nearly prostrated with fear for her personal safety and horrified at the extent of degradation on the part of the woman, who grew up to her feeble condition, to look on, unable to call for help.

The well-dressed youth acting as guard for the woman marauder stood quietly in the front hallway, smoking a cigarette.

Mrs. Riley told officers she was insulted repeatedly by the mysterious woman, who narrated vulgar details of her supposed history.

Her superiorly dressed and her companion casually left the house by the front door. A half hour later Mrs. Landis returned to her home, to find her mother in a bad condition and her home virtually wrecked.

Short-Change Artist
Victimizes Child

MISSION SAN JOSE, Feb. 9.—Officers of Washington township are tracing the so far unidentified person who is alleged to have short-changed the 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Souza, local store proprietor.

The number of the automobile in which the alleged short-changer was riding was taken by bystanders as he drove away, it is said. The license number and a description of the driver were reported to the Constable Frank Rose and Deputy Sheriff Leon Solon and they have begun a search for the man.

The short-changing was made when the stranger tendered a bill of large denomination, making a small purchase at the store.

Evidence of Chinese
Witnesses Criticized

Declaring to the jury that the memories of the Chinese witnesses for the prosecution were too good to be true, Attorney Oliver D. Hamlin today closed the defense's case in the second murder trial of the Chinese tongmen, The Chinese, who are members of the Suey Yung tong are Lee Kim, Sam Lo and Chin Fong. They are accused of the killing of Wong Wah Tung of the Bing Kongs last June.

Hamlin produced the results of scientific investigations to corroborate his contention that the fact that all the prosecution's witnesses were of the same race and that their stories were manufactured and not real.

"Professor Hugo Munsterberg of Harvard university established the fact by scientific means," he asserted, "that several expert and sincere witnesses to a simple event varied greatly in their accounts of it."

The case will go to the jury tomorrow.

Dog 'Nurse' Wins
Deaf Pair Right
To Adopt Babe

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—"Happy," a watchful collie, won a case for his master and mistress yesterday when they were granted a petition to adopt a two-year-old girl. Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Lyttel, who feared that permission to adopt the child would not be granted because they both were deaf, pointed out to County Judge Richter that "Happy" was the child's staunch protector since it was informally adopted by the Lyttels some time ago and that whenever the baby cried, the collie invariably informed them.

Traffic Officer
Held Up, Robbed

SALINAS, Feb. 9.—Traffic Officer Harry Elasho, on the lookout for reckless drivers, who had been reported driving without lights, was held up and robbed on Monday evening on the bridge near Hilltown.

Crossing the bridge at low rate of speed he observed two men attired as motorists step from the willows, and thinking they needed aid, paused to render up assistance. They immediately held him up. After they had succeeded in taking a small sum of money from his purse, they backed off and broke into a run.

Elasho rushed for aid and revolver and fired after the retreating men. At the first shot the one fell and his companion responded with a shot that struck the sand near Elasho and threw the gravel into his face, temporarily blinding him. The second man picked the fallen bandit up and they disappeared into the darkness. Elasho was unable to see them, owing to the darkness and the fact that the thug was badly hurt is known by the quantity of blood left behind.

Tabby Mothers
Orphan Brood
Of Baby Chicks

PETALUMA, Feb. 9.—Owners of tabby cats need not feel any future worry over the care of their orphaned pups. A Petaluma cat has saved the problem. Recently a stray cat came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thompson in East Petaluma and made friends with a number of baby chicks that had been left motherless. Every night the cat would crawl into the box with the chicks and tuck off their heads around her furry coat to keep warm. At first it was thought that the old cat had designs on the fluffy creatures, but she continues to sit and sleep with them, and the little flock allows the feline around as they would their own mother.

Building At Agnew
Destroyed By Fire

SAN JOSE, Feb. 9.—Fire which for a time threatened to ignite several buildings of the Agnew State Hospital for the Insane, north of here, yesterday completely destroyed the residence of Dr. Eugene W. Mullen and James T. Cutting, head physicians of the hospital staff.

Loss from the fire was today placed at more than $20,000 by the two physicians.

A wave of the blaze that razed the beautiful combined residence of the two physicians and their families could not be ascertained today. The fire had started and gained considerable headway before it was discovered and lack of fire fighting equipment at the place resulted in the complete destruction of the building.

The home, situated on the hospital property almost immediately adjoining the main building of the hospital, was a two-story structure of modern design and comparatively new. It was erected some four or five years ago and furnished at a cost of more than $10,000.

A strong wind fanned the flames and for 20 minutes threatened to carry them to adjoining buildings but the work of the entire force of employees, using buckets and garden hose, resulted in the saving of the building.

So hot were the flames and so dense the smoke that efforts to remove removable articles of value from the homes of Drs. Mullen and Cutting were futile. The fire was the worst in the history of the Agnew State Hospital.

Report of Death Is Greatly Overdrawn

SONORA, Feb. 9.—Carlo Bertonelli, like Mark Twain, says the announcement of his death is overdrawn. He fell in his tracks at the Pacific Line and his company's owner and fellow workmen rushed to his side. He was dead. No doubt about it. They notified the superintendent and he telephoned Coroner W. D. O'Brien, who started post-mortem on the man. While Bertonelli was up and walked off. O'Brien was halted en route.

Fire District Tax Collection Is Held Legal

Yolo District Attorney Paves Way For Battle Against Big Grain Fire Losses.

WOODLAND, Feb. 9.—District Attorney C. C. McDonald holds in an opinion filed with County Treasurer Roy E. Cole, that fire districts in northern California, specially those in Yolo county, are legally existing and that taxes may be collected and expended by fire commissioners without fear of successful protest.

Recently Esposito, a bond center of California, located near Woodland, organized a large fire district and levied a tax to buy equipment and prepare to reduce fire losses and insurance. Attorney Elmer W. Arm filed suit to stop the fire district of the district, representing others in this county which has been first in grain loss for several years back.

McDonald held the matter in a lengthy opinion, decided that rural districts could create fire districts under state laws, that taxes could be levied and disbursed for the purchase of equipment. It paves the way for the formation of a large number of fire districts, particularly in this county which has been first in grain loss for several years back.

Bluff Is Called,
Rancher Is Shot

SALINAS, Feb. 9.—Charles Buzon, San Miguel rancher, is in the local hospital with a gunshot wound in the leg as the result of trying to run a bluff on a neighboring farmer.

Buzon is said to have gone to Hickey's place and knocked loudly on the door to arouse Hickey from sleep, and to demand admittance. When Hickey went to the door, Buzon is alleged to have said he was going to kill him. Hickey asked permission to dress first and the wish was granted. When Hickey had dressed he asked Buzon what he intended to do and Buzon is said to have replied he meant to kill him, and placed his hand in a menacing manner upon his hip. Hickey reached behind the door where he kept his shotgun and fired at Buzon. He told the officers that Buzon ran through the calf of Buzon's leg. Hickey ran to him and turned him over, expecting to find a revolver in his hip pocket, but found Buzon unarmed. Hickey rushed for aid and notified the officers.

Hickey is a man of 70 years of age and lives alone. The alleged cause of the shooting affray was over a boundary dispute. Buzon wanted to borrow from Hickey and which Hickey refused to let him have. The officers did not arrest Hickey, but told him to appear when wanted.

Brown Loses In Jolt With Brown

SAN JOSE, Feb. 9.—It was Brown vs. Brown, a high speed race, and Brown came out the worse of the two.

He landed in the emergency hospital with a badly lacerated face that required a number of stitches to close.

W. A. Brown, 52, Humboldt street, was the victim. He was driving his automobile south on First street shortly after 8 o'clock last night and failed to see a street car stopped at Alameda avenue, the end of the South First street car line.

G. M. Brown was conductor-motorman of the street car.

The crash came about 10 p.m. Brown against the windshield of his shattered car. It sent G. M. Brown careening from his seat of composure in the street car and drove in the south end of the car. Otherwise, the Browns were all right. W. A. couldn't explain his failure to see the street car.

Bullet Head Police
Thing of the Past,
Says Chief Vollmer

"The bullet-headed, ivory-topped policeman is a thing of the past," said Chief August Vollmer of the Berkeley police. Next came a talk before the Progressive Business club at the Hotel Oakland yesterday. "The policeman of today is sometimes called upon to decide on a moment's notice, points of law that later tax supreme judges months to decide. He is often called on to perform first aid service requiring the skill of a surgeon."

"Diplomacy is required, too, as well as skill at unravelling mysteries such as crime. Next came a talk before the Progressive Business club at the Hotel Oakland yesterday. "The policeman of today is sometimes called upon to decide on a moment's notice, points of law that later tax supreme judges months to decide. He is often called on to perform first aid service requiring the skill of a surgeon."

Looks At Jury,
Then He Pleads
He Was Robber

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—Carl Eisenhart, accused nothing before Superior Judge Roeder today by juggling with his plea to a charge of robbery. When court adjourned he was facing a term of from one year to life in San Quentin penitentiary. Today was set for Eisenhart's trial. At the outset he requested that he be allowed to plead guilty to attempted robbery, but the district attorney would not consent. A jury was empaneled and when the defendant looked at the twelve men in the box he changed his mind and announced that he would plead guilty to robbery.

"Have you anything to say?" inquired the court.

"Nothing," was the response.

"Any reason why I should not send you to San Quentin?"

"I have nothing to say to the world," Eisenhart concluded, and judgment was pronounced.

On November 15, during a hold up of the soft drink parlor at Beale street, Eisenhart shot and wounded Carl Lutz, the proprietor.

Heavy Spinach
Crop Is Planned
At Centerville

CENTERVILLE, Feb. 9.—A large number of ranchers of the Centerville district will plant heavy crops of spinach next fall as the result of the success which has come to these ranchers who experimented with the crop this year.

Many of the winter spinach crop is nearing an end here this season and rich returns have been reported by ranchers. Fred Lowrie, prominent rancher, cleared four tons of spinach to the acre on his ranch near Centerville, realizing a profit which is said to be over $75 on an acre. Several other local ranchers report similar results.

Spinach as grown here is a second crop, planted after the sugar beet crop has been taken from the ground. On many ranches the land lies idle until the next year's sugar beet crop, but next year this situation will be changed, local agriculturists claim.

It has been pointed out that the market for spinach has been strong for the past four or five seasons and that land which has been idle during the late fall and winter months might be used for the winter crop with a profit.

Powder and 'Craps'

Chances of George R. Price, Oakland contractor, that his wife neglected him and their son when they were ill, and expressed a preference for another man, to which she retorts that Price wouldn't let her use face powder and spent most of his spare time shooting "craps," are being heard today by Superior Judge W. W. Harris in the divorce suit of Price and his wife, Amy E. Price, ask a divorce decree and custody of the 7-year-old son, Eugene.

A farewell letter in which Mrs. Price threatened that if he ever talked about her she would change her name, was presented to the court by Price.

Yolo Officials Face
Probe By Grand Jury

WOODLAND, Feb. 9.—If the Yolo county grand jury, now concluding its business for the current year, should find evidence of County expert W. D. Hammond, a number of officials will be required to return to the county coffers sums ranging from $1003 up. It is claimed in the report being considered, that the county has carelessly expended much money through misinterpretation of the laws and it is urged that the district attorney see, if necessary, in the name of the county for the return of moneys so illegally expended.

County Horticultural Commissioner William Gould is under fire because his salary was raised by the board of supervisors in mid-term when it became necessary to select a new board of trade while still holding his horticultural commissionership. Hammond charges him with $1003 extra money received that should be returned to the county.

Sheriff J. W. Munroe is also charged with receiving excessive mileage in cases not covered by law and where, it is claimed by Hammond, no fees should be allowed. The grand jury is carefully considering the claims of Hammond and is preparing a report of its own to supplement the expert's recommendations.

MARTINEZ, Feb. 9.—Identification by Max Greenberg, San Francisco pawnbroker, of Bennett Davis, held in the county jail on a charge of grand larceny, led to the arrest of the man who pawned survivors' instruments with him ten days ago has led to a charge of burglary being added to Davis' troubles. The charge was preferred by Howard Hopkins, official of the Coast Construction company. ONE MORE ENDORSEMENT.

Secretary of the Navy Denby has repeated his request to Congress that the government be authorized to accept land offered by the city of Alameda for utilization by the proposed Pacific naval base. Mr. Denby believes the development of the naval base should be started at once.

Certainly Congress should take definite action on this question. Alameda has offered to the government a tide-land area of 5330 acres, with the condition that development should begin before January 1, 1924. The technical and professional officers of the naval administration have been practically unanimous in their judgment that an additional naval base is necessary for the accommodation of the Pacific fleet.

It is important that this question of additional shore facilities for the naval forces on this coast be not confused with the program formulated at Washington for the restriction and limitation of naval armaments.

The Pacific fleet as at present constituted requires certain accommodations in the way of shore supply and repair stations not at present available. In order to retain the Pacific fleet in this ocean it is essential that these accommodations be afforded.

Congress cannot creditably do less than to see to it that provision is made for the maintenance of the existing naval strength in the Pacific is continued. The reasonable protection of the Pacific coast calls for the presence at all times of the Pacific fleet at substantially its present strength.

The new base is necessary. It should be started at once. No other navy yard or harbor will be adversely affected by the establishment of a new base at Alameda. The whole Pacific coast should stand united in insisting that the earliest practicable action be taken looking toward the beginning of work on this essential project.

LOWER RATES NOW JUSTIFIED.

December was one of the worst months in the history of railroad operation, the business for the last week of that month being without parallel in depressed freight transportation. There were several reasons, but the principal ones were the general business depression throughout the country, the normal slump at the end of the winter month of December and the waiting for the new tax bill to abolish transportation taxes and for the reduction in rail rates scheduled for the first of January.

But in spite of these conditions returns from eighty-three Class I railroads for the month of December shows a net operating income of $24, 745,333. This is a marked improvement over the results for the same month of 1920, when there was a deficit for all of the transportation system.
Officials of the Bureau of Railway Economics believe that the total net operating revenue will nearly reach $50,000,000.

An analysis of the preliminary report of revenue and expenses discloses that there has been a general deflation in both operating charges and freight income. There has been a 21 per cent decrease in the operating revenues and a sharp cut of 35 per cent in expenses. While the revenues seem to have fallen off more or less generally, the expenses have been slashed more heavily in the Eastern district than anywhere else in the United States.

Now, $24,000,000 is not a large net earning for eighty-three of the "Class One" railroads, which include the principal systems of the country, to make in one month. It is not at a rate equivalent to the six percent implied as justified in the transportation act. But it is as good a showing as could be expected in pre-war time in view of the conditions governing throughout last December.

The first two weeks of January were also bad for the railroads, but since then conditions have improved. They are still showing rapid improvement. It is not improbable that the Interstate Commerce Commission, taking cognizance of all these conditions, will feel justified in shortly decreeing a further reduction in traffic charges. All classes of business and industry is in need of lower rates and is expecting the necessary relief through the Interstate Commerce Commission.

UNION IS OUR DESTINY.

In the election Tuesday the precinct of Live-more voted 616 to 2 against county divisions.

That was 215 to 1 against. There were other expressions of opinion comparably as emphatic.

Washington township went 145 to one against disintegration and Murray township 112 to one.

The vote in other communities was just as impressive. All along the line, down to Berkeley's three-to-two vote, the people stood against division.

In this expression of the civic conscience of citizens, Oakland also recorded a three-to-two negative vote. In the territory which the charter proposed for the separate city and county of Oakland, there was an adverse majority of 6000 votes.

All of this goes to show that the people on the continental side of the bay realize the advantage and power of union. They see the destructive power of division. They are mindful that nature gave to the Eastbay shore certain marked advantages, a strategic position, which artificial factors may overcome for awhile but not permanently suspend.

It is plain that the people of the Eastbay shore are alive to the fact that their destiny lies in the development of the Eastbay shore as a unit.

Politicians, seeking some small personal and momentary advantage, conceived in the small mind of a politician, may make attempts to obscure this fact and lead the people to another course, but they cannot succeed.

The vote of Livermore was more nearly representative of the sentiment that should prevail on this side of the bay than any other expression recorded. Only about one citizen in every 216 should be in favor of the division of the continental shore.

A man was murdered one week ago in Los Angeles. Since then the police authorities have given the most exemplary initiation of polite and tender dealing yet recorded in the annals of crime. The only judgment one can form is that the police are afraid to discover the responsibility for the murder. The campaign to corral all the tourist trade on the Pacific Coast was not supposed to lead Los Angeles to such lengths.

Sometimes the best instrument with which to successfully attack an egoist is ridicule. If the coeds in universities whose journals published by men are continually criticising and printing nervous disquisitions about woman's dress would retaliate by gentle descriptions of men's costumes a very welcome silence might ensue.

A woman arrested for bootlegging in Chicago explained to the judge that she engaged in the business because she thought she could get away with it. That is as good an explanation as any other that could be offered and has the superior merit of being obviously honest.

THE GENOA CONFERENCE.

Three arguments are advanced against participation by the United States in the international economic conference at Genoa. One is that Lenin will be there. Another is that this nation's presence would do no good unless certain conditions in certain and western Europe—such as the size of the French army and the size of the German budget—are altered. The third is that if we send delegates to Genoa we shall be "trapped" into European "contingements."

Let us consider the practical value of the first of these three arguments. Certainly nobody in his senses proposes that we shall refuse to meet Lenin simply in order that we may hurt Lenin's feelings or in order that we may gratify our own sense of superiority to Lenin. Such motives might dictate the policy of a silly person invited to a tea party.
They do not deserve consideration by a government invited to an international conference. Refusal to meet Lenin must be justified by some substantial reason.

We have been refusing to meet Lenin ever since November, 1917, when he assumed power in Russia.
For a time we not only refused to meet him, but we made the mistake of sending soldiers into Russia to fight his soldiers. Is Lenin weaker now in Russia than he was in November, 1917? The latest exposed testimony on this subject comes from ex-Gov.
Goodrich of Indiana after a journey through Russia.
Mr. Goodrich asserts that the fall of Lenin is extremely unlikely.

There is, however, a grave objection to unquestioning acceptance of Lenin as the authentic representative of the Russian people. Lenin and his associates hold power—or have until very recently—in part through a most merciless system of applied terrorism.
Opposition to Lenin's government anywhere within the reach of Lenin's red arm, the all-powerful Cheka, has meant imprisonment and then speedy release from prison bars at the hands of an efficient firing squad.
Until Lenin is content to rest his rule on something less revolting than death to those who oppose him, any peaceful meeting of it would be a crime against the oppressed Russian people to accept him as the head of their government. Is Lenin prepared to show that he no longer answers the arguments of his political opponents with rifle bullets, that such tranquility as his government enjoys is the tranquility of the tomb?
Before recognizing Lenin's authority the United States government should satisfy itself that the Cheka no longer retains its license to make a shambles of Russia in order that Lenin and his followers may remain in power.

It is true that in addition to being the head of the Russian government Lenin has become the leader of that section of the Russian communist party that desires to learn lessons from capitalism. Under his leadership that section of the party has become the dominant section.

Russia is still dominated by the communist party.
But do the Cheka's firing squads continue to account for that domination? It is important that the self-governing nations should know before they accept Lenin as the voice of the Russian people. Yet the United States ought to be represented at Genoa, Lenin or no Lenin. If the Cheka still menaces covering Russia with bloody hands the American government should have no dealing with Lenin.—Chicago Daily News.

THE HAPPY FAMILY REUNION.

NOTES and COMMENT

One point that may have been overlooked is stressed by the New York Herald: The advocates in the theater business of various kinds of dramatic censorship seem to forget too completely one important and basic fact. This is the fact that there never should be need for any kind of dramatic censorship.

A note of optimism from the Boston Transcript: That submerging earthquake was, of course, the Pacific's farewell disturbance. Hereafter the haleyoon will build her nest in peace all the way from Tokio to the Golden Gate.

The first time Voliva has been associated with Einstein, in the New York Times: Mr. Voliva of Zoin City has made some astounding celestial discoveries which quite upset the calculations of every scientist who has dabbled in astronomy from the days of Copernicus down to Einstein. In the first place, the earth is a flat plane surrounded by a wall of ice to prevent fool-hardy mariners from sailing over the edge into space. Secondly, and even more amazing, the sky is a great dome of solid material from which the sun, moon and stars hang like lighted chandeliers. As for relativity, there is none, nor gravitation either. Mr. Voliva has done away with them and the necessity for them by a momentous and awe-inspiring exercise of pure imagination.

One has a fellow-feeling for the revenue agents who found that the thousand gallons of stored wine had turned to water. It happens in all well-regulated families that have dealings with bootleggers.

The Modford Mail Tribune has its own way of commenting on a famous case: Yes, Millicent, the public is disgusted with the carry-ings-on of perfumed honeybees, and dainty beauties, and gosh! how they hate to read the colorful details. The sad story of Pateo Arbuckle is ancient history, but noisy and high priced lawyers toll on for his ultimate skin-fication. Ho! for the days when there was nothing more thrilling than a plodding hired man eloping with the pretty schoolma'am from the wicked city.

Any meteorological scientist will tell you so. But it is odd that coincidences of this sort should so often happen! And, if their happening concerned anything but the weather and the moon, maybe somebody would get to work and reason out causes and effects.—Crockett Signal.

Nobody who cared to retain his sanity would attempt to follow and explain the motives that underlie the editorial discourses, preachment and exhortations of yellow journalism. They are past finding out, and there is no consecutiveness in them. None is demanded. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof, and each new dawn affords material for editorial yawpings whose purport need in no wise be in logical harmony with that of the day before.—Palo Alto Times.

We do not keep up our editorial work for the money there is in it, as there is not much money in it, and we could put in the time thus spent to better financial benefit. Having learned how from years of experience, we can make more money mining precious metals from the mountains in one year than we can earn by writing editorials a lifetime, but money is not everything in the world—in fact, it is very little, compared to other things.—Richmond Record-Herald.

A Santa Cruz man who had a narrow escape from getting run down by an auto says there is no sensation quite as queer as standing on the edge of eternity without a dollar in your pocket and an overdue life insurance policy which you have just dropped.—Santa Cruz Sentinel.

Some of the men at work cleaning the ditch above Murphy's of snow and ice, during the recent storm, found a young deer floundering in the icy water and snow. The deer was rescued and turned loose in a place of safety. He had evidently attempted to jump the ditch, but miscalculated the distance, had fallen in and was unable to extricate himself.—Calaveras Prospect.

Did you happen to remember that there was a new moon on Saturday night? The rain, which changed into a snowstorm, began on Saturday night. Of course the new moon had nothing to do with it. It was a mere coincidence.

You will speak about his worth. When he has no need of fame. You will glorify his name. When at last he quits the earth. And if he should die today. Many kindly things you'd say. But I wonder why do men. Always seem to wait till then?

But today he mustn't know. That his neighbors love him so. Draw up, friends, on either side. For the man who lives today! Smile at him and smooth his way. Let the line be long and wide. Let your praise of him be said. As you would if he were dead. Make his living march as fine. As shall be his funeral line.

about YOUR HEALTH

How to Choose Your Food

According to Your Own Needs

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., Commissioner of Health,
New York City.

It is literally true that what is one man's food is another man's poison.

Some of the most common articles of food, appearing on every table, are extremely poisonous to an occasional person. Taken in the smallest quantities, there may be nausea, headache, breaking out of the skin, even fever, and occasionally unconsciousness.

"Prophylaxis" is a medical word, meaning protection against disease. The opposite of prophylaxis is "anaphylaxis" there is an inability on the susceptibility, to disease. In anaphylaxis there is an ability on the part of the individual, under certain conditions, to resist the poisonous effects of a given substance.

I think it may be said that anaphylaxis is usually a suddenly acquired condition. Up to a given date there has been no difficulty about taking this or that food, when suddenly eating it is promptly followed by such poisonous effects as I have described.

On the other hand, there are some persons who have had from earliest memory an intolerance for certain articles of food. Every time they are taken—whether deliberately, or unconsciously—the uncomfortable symptoms appear. This peculiarity—"idiosyncrasy" is called—may be a family trait.

Ordinarily the food proteins are readily and eagerly accepted by the human body. There are proteins, like snake venom, for instance, which are extremely poisonous to everybody. But we find difficulty in explaining the reasons for the extreme intolerance we meet on occasions.

You may not get serious and violent effects from certain foods, but you always feel distressed after eating them. Your insistent, baffled caber, onions and turnips may disagree with you and produce symptoms of dyspepsia or indigestion.

Eggs, shellfish, strawberries, cream, coffee and many other articles are capable of producing all the uncomfortable symptoms of food intolerance.

Some folks can eat anything that doesn't bite them first. But when you know you are uncomfortable or ill every time you eat a certain food, why do you eat it? Common sense demands that you omit from your diet every article of doubtful effect.

There are ways of finding out for certain what it is that causes your trouble. Vaccines are made of all the probable offending articles, and by the reaction following their use the guilty food is located.

If you study your own food likes and dislikes—and your tolerance and intolerance—you may find probably will be able to discover the offending food.

Then drop it from your list of approved foods.

Suit your food to your personal needs. Regulate the quantity according to your age, and make your diet fit the season of the year, and the kind of work you are doing. Care of this sort will add years to your life, to your comfort and to your efficiency.

Culinary Fame Of Man Spreads

Father of San Leandro Marshal To Officiate At Uni-

SAN LEANDRO, Feb. 9.—The culinary fame of Joseph Peralta, senior, father of the present marshal of San Leandro, has spread far beyond San Leandro. A telephone message was received yesterday asking his services at a proposed barbecue to be held at the University of California in April. He believes that he will accept the offer.

Peralta has gained considerable reputation in San Leandro for officiating at barbecues, and is much in demand whenever an affair of the sort is planned. At a recent barbecue given by the Best Tractor company for employees and families, Peralta was in charge of the feeding of approximately 500 persons.

"I learned how to cook the big ones and chunks of beef away back in the early days when San Leandro was a collection of a few dozen houses and a barbecue was the big event of the time," said Peralta. "People would gather from all parts of the district and make a holiday of the occasion. My seventy-two years don't bother me a bit. The bigger the crowd and the more meat to prepare the better I like it."

Alleged Radio Stock Fraud Case Is Tried

With nine courts in session and only eight courts rooms available in the Alameda county court house, Superior Judge James Quinn was forced to make the meeting room of the board of supervisors a temporary court room in which to hear the case of William Frederick against Frank J. Golden and William D. Jarboe. Frederick charges Golden and Jarboe with obtaining money by false pretense. His complaint sets forth that Golden and Jarboe persuaded him to buy stock in the National Radio Co., an Arizona corporation capitalized at $200,000. Its two million shares being worth ten cents each, by their declarations that the stock was worth 50 cents a share. He is suing to recover $4284.50.

The National Radio Company was incorporated to manufacture wireless telephones for commercial use and 1,200,735 shares of stock between May 5, 1918, and October 15, 1919. Frederick alleges.

Witness in Bunko Case In Collapse

Hearing of John Lakeman Is Halted When Canadian On Stand Faints While Telling of Alleged $10,800 Swindle

The preliminary hearing of John Lakeman, Oakland promoter, on a charge of the grand larceny of $10,800 from William G. Woolfrey, of Moosejaw, Canada, ended abruptly and dramatically today when Woolfrey collapsed utterly while on the witness stand.

He was removed to the chambers of Police Judge Edward J. Tyrrell, where he was revived. He was so shaken, however, it was found necessary to continue the hearing until February 15. He was found to be on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

According to Woolfrey, the complaining witness against Lakeman, he met the latter and another man while crossing the bay from San Francisco to Oakland for the first time and was induced to share in a plan which, he said, was described as being a "sure-fire" method of beating the stock market.

Woolfrey said he returned to Moosejaw, gathered up all his money and securities, amounting to $10,500, and turned them over to Lakeman and three alleged associates. He charged that after many delays and explanations, the "scheme" fell through and his money never has been returned to him.

Lakeman is at liberty on $15,000 cash bail.

Janitor May Lose Place For Smoking

Upholding the rule which forbids janitors and custodians from smoking in school buildings, the civil service board last night cited R. Bullock to appear next Tuesday evening and show cause why he should not be stricken from the civil service list. Bullock was temporary custodian at the Elmhurst school. Its principal alleges that Bullock has been careless in observing the regulations.

This is the first time in years that such a case has come before the civil service board.

The appeal of Patrolman Richard G. Feeley, Joseph L. Phillips and James A. Riley against suspension was set over three weeks for hearing. The three policemen were suspended from their jobs for smoking in court testimony in favor of a narcotics peddler. It was held by Commissioner Frank Colburn that it is not a policeman's duty to appear as court witnesses in favor of such persons.

A letter was received from Cedric Petersen, asking what disposal will be made of the Petersen case now that Walter J. Hesse of the civil service board is dead. Petersen says he wishes to know what effect this death will have upon the judgment of the case. The civil service board last night decided to answer Petersen later, when the board gets a legal opinion on the matter.

It is admitted that the death of Hesse will have a bearing on the matter. The Petersen case was first tried before the old civil service board, but when it went out of office the testimony had to be read by the new board. Hesse was a member of the new board. His death, it is admitted, may mean a new study of the case for the benefit of whoever takes his place; but this is not yet certain.

The civil service board adjourned early, out of respect for Hesse.

Jail Battered In San Leandro Is Real Mystery

SAN LEANDRO, Feb. 9.—Marshall J. F. Peralta of San Leandro is wondering whether there was an attempted jail break yesterday or whether the interior of the local jail was wrecked by a maliciously inclined inmate.

Examination of the interior of the jail late yesterday afternoon brought to light the fact that things were in a state of general disorder.

The mattresses of the bunks, with the blankets were thrown in the corner of the cell; a lantern suspended from the ceiling was battered out of shape; the electric light wires were torn from their places, and a large board from the side of the bunk was torn away and split in half.

Examination of the door of the hall and a portion of the roof through which ventilation is allowed, showed signs of a knife being used to whittle away portions of the obstruction. The board torn from the side of the bunk was also used to attempt to force open the door.

The wreckage was noticed only after the prisoners locked in had been discharged.

U. C. Lectures By Wireless, Plan

SAN LEANDRO, Feb. 9.—J. E. Faustina, rector of the University of California, is heading a move by which lectures of the University of California will be broadcasted by means of wireless.

For many years Faustina has been interested in this subject, and has had installed in his home one of the most complete receiving sets in the district.

The matter of receiving all important lectures delivered at the University of California was decided upon by Faustina after it had been brought to his attention and favorably commented upon by friends interested in wireless.

The subject was broached to one of the broadcasting stations located in the bay region, and by the station sent in all directions. The broadcasting message asked that those favoring the idea communicate with J. E. Faustina.

According to Faustina, the results obtained give him a working basis on which to present the idea to the University. A dozen letters expressing approval have been received. Letters have been received from San Jose, Burlingame and as far north as Anacortes, Washington, and many smaller interior towns. It is believed by Faustina that many more will be heard from, as the message has been broadcasted from the Presidio wireless station early this week for the second time.

Skull and Keys Will Give Dance

BERKELEY, Feb. 9.—To announce their return to a place among the university honor societies, the Skull and Keys will give a dance at the Alpha fraternity house next week. Barred from the campus for more than a year, the society members have confined their activities to holding meetings and one initiation during the period of probation.

Upon the recommendation by President David P. Barrows that the organization be restored to full standing, the students have prepared to resume their former functions and will act as ushers at college affairs in the future. The traditional hats worn by the collegians have been ordered with the approval of President Barrows, and a date is being arranged for the annual Skull and Keys-Faculty baseball game.

Woman Found Alone Ill Dies in Hospital

BERKELEY, Feb. 9.—Mrs. Mary D. Sargent, 1627 Leroy avenue, died in Temple Hospital this morning. Alarmed at her two days' silence, persons in the house owned by Mrs. Sargent called the police and her door was broken down. She was found ill and hurried to the hospital, but death's hand would not be stayed.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Mrs. Sargent is survived by a son, Paul Sargent, and two daughters, Mrs. Bertha O. Graves, Portland, Ore., and Mrs. Glenn Woodruff, Roseburg, Ore. She had resided in Berkeley 15 years.

Dormitory Need Is Told By Students

BERKELEY, Feb. 9.—In an effort to convince the regents of the university that dormitories are an immediate need of the student body, students of the institution have launched a publicity week to precede the meeting of the regents in Los Angeles next week. Figures proving the high charges for board and lodging made by boarding house-keepers will be made public by the students, as well as the results of questionnaires sent to other universities supporting dormitories.

The colleges desire that the construction of $250,000 for the construction of two dormitory halls, each with 200 beds, be approved. A total of 2575 students have signed cards showing a desire to live in dormitories. Of this number, 1514 are men and 1061 women.

Barrows To Attend Meeting of Regents

BERKELEY, Feb. 9.—President David P. Barrows will leave Berkeley tonight to attend a meeting of the board of regents in Los Angeles. The annual budget of the university will be voted at the meeting and appointment of new instructors and professors made. Dean H. R. Hatfield of the faculties will be active head of the university during the president's absence and will meet the university meeting tomorrow.

Oakland Boy Writes U. C. Seniors Play

BERKELEY, Feb. 9.—"Hail the Millennium," written by Donald J. Gillies of Oakland, law student at the university, has been chosen for this year's senior extravaganza to be presented as a feature of commencement week on the campus.

Gillies' play was chosen from a large number of manuscripts by a committee consisting of W. J. Corrigan, member of the senior class; Professor C. D. Von Neunmayer of the university's public speaking department; Professor Chauncey Wells of the English department and Morris Ankrum and E. C. Buffeto of the university's little theater.

S. F. Man Freed in Syndicalism Case

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—Eugene Loane, alleged secretary of the I. W. W. organization with headquarters at 9 Mission street, was dismissed by Police Judge McAtee, who held that he was not guilty of the charge of criminal syndicalism. Loane was arrested several weeks ago for having altered I. W. W. literature in his possession. Judge McAtee decided that the mere possession of the incriminating documents was not an offense and had been so held by the higher court.

Threatening Case Dropped By Man

SAN LEANDRO, Feb. 9.—Charges against James McGough of San Leandro, charged with demanding money of Manuel Cunha and threatening him with a knife, were dropped yesterday afternoon. It was stated by Cunha that he had no desire to prosecute the man. After a severe grilling by both Marshal J. P. Peralta and Judge W. J. Cannon, he was allowed his freedom.

FATHER AND THREE-YEAR-OLD SON.

(Father comes home carrying new magazine under his arm. Son spots it.)
Hello, son.
Gi'me mag'zeen.
No, you can't have this. Daddy wants to read it.

I wanna read.
You can't read.
Can too. Gi'me mag'zeen.
No, you can't have it! What did you do today?
Won't tell you.
Come on, now, that's no way to talk to Daddy. Won't you tell me what you did today?
No.
Why not?
I wan' mag'zeen.

Well, Daddy told you you couldn't have it. You tell Daddy what you did all day.

Won't.
Oh, come on.
Come on nuthin'.
Where's Sister?
Won't tell you.
Daddy will spank you if you don't quit being so sassy. You are a bad boy.

(Son's face puckers up. He bawls. Mother rushes in.)
Daddy said me bad boy.
What do you mean by coming home and abusing the poor child?
Who's abusing him?
You are. See, you have got him crying. What did you do to him?
Nothing, he just wanted the magazine and I won't let him have it. Ah, let him have the old magazine.

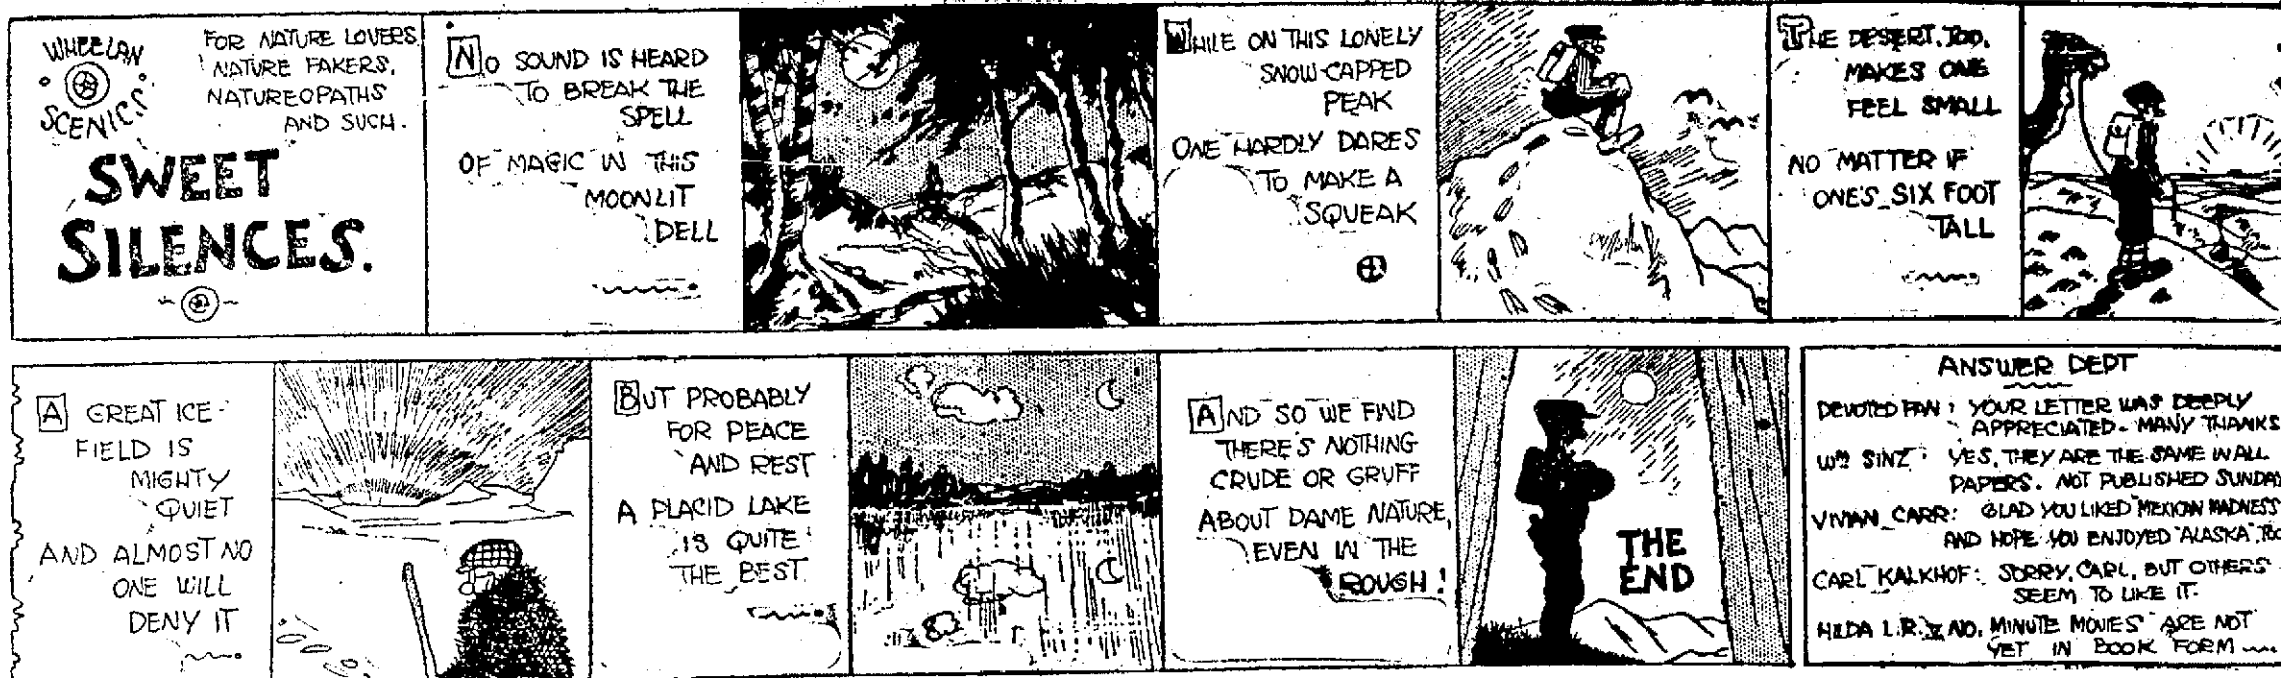

(Meanwhile Son has grabbed it off the table and is industriously tearing off the cover.)

Now look at that. See what he does with it.
Give me that magazine!
Won't. My mag'zeen. (Sits on it.)
Mother: (Admiringly) There, isn't he spirited?
I'll spirit him, the little devil.
Me li'l debbil? (Bawls.)
There you go, you big brute, making him cry again.

(This goes on for quite a while. Eventually, of course, the "little devil" gets the magazine and keeps it. Father buys another one, or does without.)

BOYCOTT OF PROFESSIONAL LEAGUES TO "GET" LANDIS

RULING IN BUILDING TRADES WAGE AWARD AROUSES LABOR MEN

Local Officials Have Received No Word About Action Said To Have Been Taken in East.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—A gigantic boycott of professional baseball is planned for the coming season, it was stated today. The boycott will be in protest of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis' action in the Chicago building trades council wage award.

More than a million men of the United States will participate in the boycott, it was said.

"Oust Landis, baseball chief, or bust professional baseball," is declared to be the union slogan, according to a high union official of Chicago. Landis' wage award cut the wages of thousands of men.

"Everything is set," this official declared. "The boycott will be nationwide, affecting every city where major league clubs play. The boycott has been taken up by union organizations in every nook and corner of the land. The matter was not proposed by labor leaders. They originated in the minds of labor's rank and file.

N. Y. Yanks Are Having Trouble With Outfield

The boycott has been worked out and discussed and nothing more remains to be added. It was suggested that the subject be brought up at the coming American Federation of Labor meeting.

"However, many unions are going ahead now and there is a possibility that there will be concerted action in the form of resolutions long before the federation meeting is opened. It is the feeling of the speaker that Landsis did not give the working man a square deal."

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Judge Landsis gave his decision in the Chicago building trades wage award, acting as arbitrator in the pending suit of John K. Heydler, president of the National League, today, commenting on the failure of the boycott on organized baseball.

"That award had nothing to do with his position as baseball's chief," he said.

Local labor officials have been informed of the proposed boycott. Charles J. Connelley, president of the painters' Union, said he knew nothing about the matter, but may get word from the American Federation of Labor.

Washington, Boston and St. Louis have added strength since the close of the season. It would not be a shock to see the Senators up around the top from the start and any club

ST. Hornsby, who last year received $11,000, is asking $25,000 for the three-year contract, officials here have agreed to pay him only $15,000 a year for three years, it was said.

JOHNNY BURNS WINS DECISION OVER DYNAMITE GEORGE

WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE BASKETBALL TEAM AGAIN DEFEATS THE STANFORD QUINTET

TEDDY O'HARA PUTS UP THE BEST FIGHT OF HIS CAREER WITH HERERRA

Curly Finton Gives Away Too Much Weight And Loses To Goat Lavin.

By BOB SHAND

"Dynamite" George and Johnny Burns, the main-eventers at last night's auditorium boxing show, knocked Old Man Precedent for a goal and then went out and staged a regular battle. In the past the main-eventers resembled something that comes from Switzerland and is full of holes, but the Burns-George mix-up was the real thing in fighting. Burns got the decision because he outboxed the Los Angeles boxer in the last round. The first three rounds were even up, but Burns set a terrific pace in the fourth and with long right-hand swings piled up enough points to win the verdict. George was fighting back at all times and put up a good, clean fight, but condition told in that last frame. The first two rounds were split fifty-fifty. George assumed a lead in the early part of the third when he scored with a stiff body punch and two right-handers to the chin, but before the round ended Burns went on the aggressive and tied the round. The fourth was a wicked spell of fighting with both trying for a knockout.

Curly Finton, the comedian of the ring, gave away too much weight to Goat Lavin and the fight was stopped in the second round with Finton on the floor after taking a terrible right-hand blow on the jaw. A hook had sent poor Curly into the street and while he was wondering what had hit him, Goat crashed the right and Finton went down in a heap. Giving away thirty pounds is no business but there was nobody else but Finton to fight. Next time Jack Downey says he will match him with a boy of his own size. Curly proved a heat for punishment while the fight lasted. By rights he should have gone down for the count in the first round but he took a knock on the chin as though he liked them. Occasionally he rallied and socked the front with both hands but his punches did not do any damage. Finton is still a card and will be just as funny when he meets some middleweight.

Joe Gorman, the original since 1919, which I wish you would keep for future reference in case you should have a call from one claiming to be Joe Gorman.

O'Hara Puts Up Clean Battle With Joe Hererra.

Teddy O'Hara put up the best fight of his career against Joe Hererra and won every round. He knocked his man down twice, once with a right-hand blow and the second time with a left and at the end of each of the first three rounds he had his foot on Hererra's chest. Teddy got his customary looking when he entered the ring but got the change of his life when he left. Not once during the contest was it necessary to warn O'Hara about using illegal tactics and the boys went the whole route without being touched by the referee. Hererra also put up a nice, clean scrap but he was out-classed by the Watts tract entry. Fighting as he did last night O'Hara can become one of the most popular boxers in the game and he can fight himself into the main event class again. Only bad luck prevented him from scoring a knockout last night, the going having been three times.

Tailor Games With St. Mary's Are Postponed

Rain Calls Halt in Series Until Next Week; Irelands Meet Saints Sunday.

The rain is holding up baseball activities at St. Mary's college this week. For Graduate Manager Le Pore had added a 5-game series with the Ambrose Tailors to his previously announced schedule, and all the games were to have been played this season. John Gifford, manager-in-chief to the Saints' diamond act, has been dissatisfied with the batting averages and the series was arranged to give the collegians a chance against real pitching. The Saints managed to play one game, the series on Tuesday and were given a real wallop by the Tailors, but looked better at than any time this season. John Gifford said that when there are few better pitchers in this locality, worked for Ambrose's team and bore down all the way, but the Saints met his offerings with frequency and only sensational catches by Viverio, Hawkes and Christensen saved the game from being sent to the showers. Huston Stockton, the backfield star of Madrigal college, gathered two hits for himself, making a total of five in the last two games and he looked like a fixture in right field. Previous to coming to St. Mary's, Stockton had played but little baseball, but he is a natural hitter, and while he is far from a finished fielder, he has speed and the necessary athletic sense to allow him to develop.

The greatest find of the season at the Oakland college is "Buck" Harrington, the younger brother of the one who is going back of second to knock down hard hit grounders. Those who should know at the Oakland college, and he is the greatest shortstop since 1911 when Tommy Fitzsimmons covered that position for the Varsity.

Harrington expressed himself as satisfied with his pitching staff and with the feeling of his team and he is ready to lead the team into its stride. It will be hard to stop. Last year the Saints won twenty-six out of thirty games, but they were dropped the game that their routers were intent on having them win. This year the collegians have started at a slower pace and to date have dropped five out of eight contests, but they have been throwing out away at critical times by poor judgment on the paths. Competition, such as the schedule calls for, is bound to eradicate this tendency to run wild on the bases, and once this fault is removed the Saints will be a dangerous team.

If it is impossible to finish the series with the Ambrose Tailors this week, the teams will meet on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. Saturday the St. Mary's team will play the Jeffersons and on Sunday Cliff Ireland will bring his big leaguers to Oakland for a return game with the Saints.

STANFORD GETS AXE TWICE IN SAME SPOT FROM W.S.C. COUGARS

Cardinals Drop Second Contest 15-13 After Rough Game; Bears Meet Cougars Friday.

By DOUG MONTELL

The little bird who chirped to the effect that "every cloud has a silver lining" is not in harmony with what has been happening to Gene Van Gent at Stanford. Just when everything appeared to be going big for the former Wisconsin man and the population of Stanford had forgotten the late disastrous grid season and had begun to acclaim Van Gent as a real basketball coach, along came the Washington State Cougars and popped the Indians on the nose. Then for four someone hadn't been looking they up and did it again, last night the tune was 15-13. Matters not for the Cardinal supporters will see in the standing of the clubs, as a result of the game, that Stanford is now sojourning in the next to the bottom position on the conference ladder. For the benefit of the customers who came in late we will again allude to the painful happening—the game was basketball—and it happened last night.

The sum total of all the arguments is that Washington State, coming from the far north a team badly beaten in five of their Conference games, along at the bottom of the procession, dropped the second of the Cardinal hosts for the second time in as many evenings. The Stanford Athletic Club, who are graciously admitted that that is no way for even a haughty cougar to get, the Cardinals' sympathy, at least have had a little sympathy for the feelings of Mr. Van Gent, who is a good deal of a boy in the art of guiding a basketball team. The small circles, inconveniently placed, such as glass backstops, they didn't.

Friel Is Star Until Ejected.

And they do tell us that men have been hung for less than Mr. Van Gent has failed to accomplish "down on the farm." The details of the slaughter of the innocents would lead to believe that the northern game pursued right and unethical tactics to gain their point (or points). The head, whose chief position as captain and leader of the team, was the most important member of the Criminal Gray was the most offensive of the Cardinals. Before the contest had proceeded and before the timekeeper to announce the term of the sport for the evening, he had had personal fouls and he had in excess of what the law allowed. Friel departed from the scene as the last minute and the crowd to enjoy the game the more for his departure. Friel was said not to have been unnecessarily rough, just playfully boisterous, but his desire to fraternize with the Stanford players constitutes violation of the rules which prohibits holding any similar signs of good fellowship.

Cards Tie It Up, But Then Falter.

It was, indeed, a severe blow to the Cards, two bunnies when none had been expected. The second test was faster than the first and might have been characterized as a whirlwind contest. Play at the close of the first half found the visitors leading 9-7 and although their score mounted to 13 soon after the start of the second half, the Cards found ways and means of making a few markers themselves and kept the count at that figure with three minutes to play. Then Sorenson, center of Bohannon and Washington farm hands, and subsequent efforts of Stanford's warriors failed to net them additional points. The play at the end of the fast as could be desired and in the excitement of the windup much of the argument and fouling of the period was forgotten. Washington State's points were evenly distributed among all participants while Captain Davies accumulated the most for Stanford. But three field goals went to the Cardinal, one each by Davies, McHose and Richmond, who returned to the line-up after his illness.

The line-ups: Wash. State (13): Pags, Stanford (13) Friel (5), Davies (8), Rogers (2), Sorenson (1), Richmond (2), Loomis (2), Gifford (2), Substitutes—Washington State: Schroeder (2), Friel, Stanford: McHose (2) for Rogers.

Cougars Move On To Berkeley.

Fresh from their two victories over Stanford, now with a title to fifth place in the Coast Conference, Washington State moved up to Berkeley today to take a day of rest before their two-game series with the Bruins, which opens tomorrow night at the Oakland Auditorium. The little municipal hangout by the lake will be the scene of a pair of very interesting contests. If the recent Stanford-W.S.C. series can be taken as a criterion, California split even, with the Cougars on their recent northern trip to Pullman, winning the first game by a count of 21-15 and dropping the second 26-24. The advantage apparently lies with the Bears, as it appeared to with Stanford before the games were played, at least California will have no squawk coming if they fail to win and will be forced to admit that someone prevailed when they announced that the Cougars were a full-end organization. The Blue and Gold frankly expects to take two straight. They should for Washington State's victories over the Cardinals were not as impressive as California's of last Saturday night.

Glenn Warner Has Ideal Position.

In the midst of it all Glenn Warner and Andy Smith cannot remain out of the conversation. Stanford was willing to turn her thoughts from football to anything else a few months back, now they desire to turn all thought to football—Glenn Warner. Warner, he it said, has a nice thing of it at Stanford. His contract is for three years, he is gaining two years hence, the meantime a couple of his assistants will keep his system on the Cardinal campus and in so doing may or may not win the football games. In either case Warner stands to lose nothing by reputation if he should be defeated while a victory will be to his credit. It is not the same situation that Andy Smith starred under at California, where he personally arrived and developed his system at the cost of three years of hard work and many knocks. Smith has grivance and is producing the goods. Warner is an able coach but must get settled and it will be 1924 before he can be sued for failure to deliver a farm. Andy Smith is planning a visit east to the football rules meeting and expects to spend considerable time there before his return. Details of spring practice will be taken care of by Andy before his departure and will probably be superintended by his assistants.

Benny Leonard To Box Kansas Tomorrow Night

Lightweight Champion To Take On Rough Boxer From Middle West.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, and Rocky Kansas, challenger, today finished training for their fifteen round bout tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden. The champion weighed in a fraction over 135 pounds when he started his final day's work, and it was announced at his training quarters that he would be at the 135-pound limit tomorrow night. Under the rules the title will be at the weight. Should Kansas weigh in at 135 pounds and defeat the champion, even though the latter were above weight, he would win the title. Should both be above weight, the title will not be involved.

Here's One Official Who Is Appreciated

Speaking editorially, the official Stanford publication, the Daily Stanford, of Tuesday printed the following: "The way of an athletic official is hard. Not everyone is entirely satisfied with every decision made by him. Not everyone participating in attending athletic contests is polite enough to refrain from shouting his disapproval. Therefore the work of an official is not only hard, but practically thankless. Referees come and referees go, but Referee Lind Kearns goes on forever. He goes on in the same competent way and is always the same fair and efficient master of the game. His official is the one who has no basketball games are played. He is consistently accurate in his decisions and is one of the fairest and most competent basketball officials in the coast court game today. Let us have more of Kearns."

Farren's manager said the terms he sent were not prohibitive.

State Junior Golf To Be At Del Monte

Bohannon, Los Angeles, is the present champion.

Tom Gibbons Is Matched to Box Greb March 13

Leading Light-Heavyweights Will Step 15 Rounds To a Decision.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Tom Gibbons, St. Paul, light-heavyweight, and Harry Greb of Pittsburgh have been matched for a fifteen-round decision bout here March 13. Articles were signed yesterday.

Gibbons, with a long string of knockouts to his credit, and Greb, called the "phantom killer," are considered the foremost American boxers in their division with the exception of the A. P. champion, Gene Tunney.

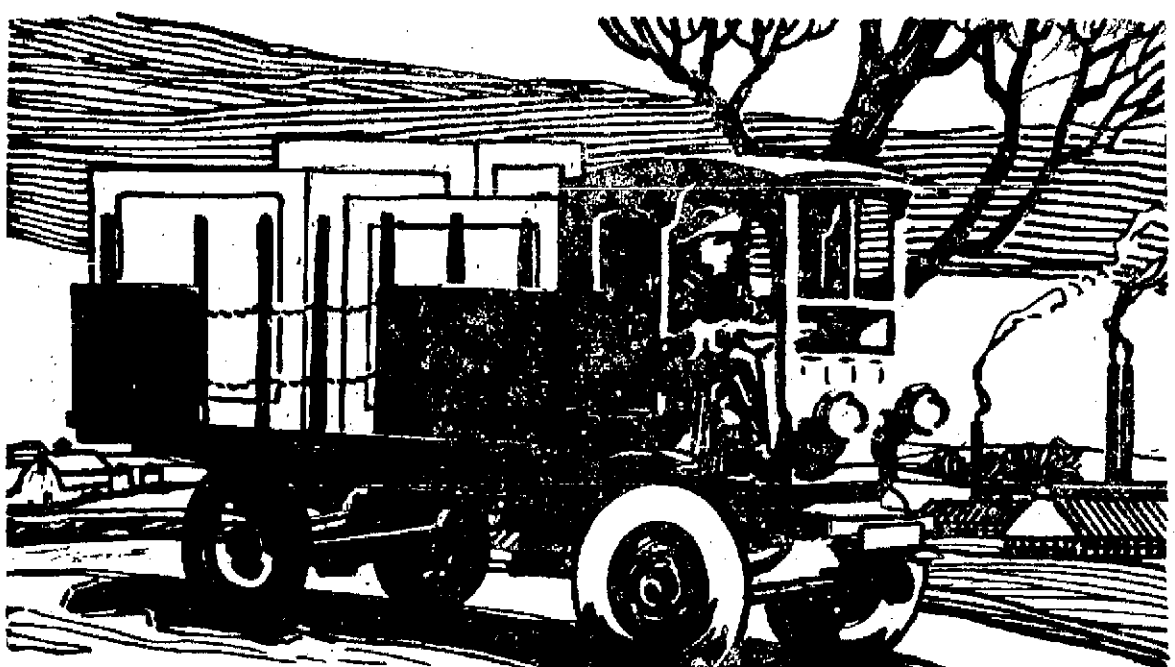

The bout on March 13, it is understood, will be the first of an elimination series to determine the next American opponent for Georges Carpentier. The winner of the Gibbons-Greb bout will be matched with Tunney and the victor will meet Carpentier.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Tom Gibbons of St. Paul, who yesterday was matched with Harry Greb of Pittsburgh for a fifteen-round decision bout March 13, knocked out 21 of the 24 pounds he met in 1921. He has one knockout in his credit this year. Most of Gibbons' knockout victims were rated as second and third class fighters, but none was able to stand against the punches for many rounds. One of the three men he failed to knock out was Bartley Madden, whose record against Gibbons is one win and one loss.

Greb is one of the most aggressive of the light-heavyweights. He boasts victories over many of the best of the heavier pugilists and recently won a decision over Charles Wentz, Newark, N. J., heavyweight.

Oregon Preparing For O. A. C. Series

EUGENE, Ore., Feb. 9.—The University of Oregon basketball team is working out for the second two games with the Aggies at Corvallis this week-end, although there is no prediction being made here that they will win over their rivals, the games promise to be hotly contested. The freshmen also play at Corvallis this week, the game coming as preliminaries to the varsity contests on Friday and Saturday nights. A basketball team from Corvallis is due to play Medford and Ashland high schools.

FINISHED GOODS EXPORTED IN 1921

REACH NEW LEVEL

Manufacturers Are Sending

Out Constantly Increasing Share of Product.

Finished manufactures exported from the United States in the calendar year 1921 formed a larger percentage of our exports than in any previous pre-war year and their

Of course, it was not to be expected, says the Trade Record of the National City Bank of New York, that the group "Manufactures for use in manufacturing" would form as large a percentage of the exports in 1921 as in pre-war years, for most of this class of material exported was used in manufacturing.

have not yet resumed their pre-war activities and purchases. But finished manufactures, which go directly from the United States to the non-manufacturing sections of the world—South America, Asia, Oceania, Africa, and our North American neighbors—actually formed 37 per cent of the exports of the country in the calendar year 1921 against only 31 per cent in 1919.

Even at the greatly reduced prices of 1921 the total value of finished manufactures exported was $1,625,600,000 against only $725,000,000 in the fiscal year 1914, $500,000,000 in 1911, $332,000,000 in 1909, $32,000,000 in 1890, and $32,000,000 in 1880.

It is quite apparent from these figures, adds the bank's statement, that our manufacturers are sending abroad a constantly increasing share of their products. Of course, it is impossible to state in exact figures the percentage of the manufactures which pass out of the country, for the reason that our only record of manufactures exported is by law their value at the time of exportation and at the port from which they leave if "United States," while the census record of manufactures produced is, of course that at the factory, often far distant from the port of exportation, and the record of production takes place only quinquennially, while that of exportation is annual or even monthly.

But it is quite evident that the percentage of growth in exports is manufactures is far greater than the percentage of growth in production, and thus apparent that the manufacturers are increasing the share of their manufactures which they send abroad. The official figures of manufactures produced in the United States in 1919 are $62,427,825,000, against $9,372,000,000 in 1893, thirty years earlier, the output of 1919 being thus approximately seven times that of 1893.

much as in 1889, while the value of manufactures exported in 1919, $126,000,000, is fifteen times as large as that of 1889, and if we consider only finished manufactures the record for 1919 is nineteen times as great as that of 1889. Manufactures produced in 1919 show an increase of 544 per cent over 1889, while all manufactures exported show an increase of 140 per cent, and finished manufactures pastures and ranges of the state for the past three weeks, due to the continued cold weather, and the have declined in condition until they are reported at 72 per cent normal compared with 86 on January 1, says E. L. Kaufman, statistician of the State Board of Agriculture. High temperatures will soon remedy this condition, he says.

On the market outlook for hay, Kaufman says:

"The price of hay on farms seems to have hardened a little, although quotations in San Francisco and Los Angeles indicate slight declines with plenty of hay for sale. Farm prices have doubtless been affected somewhat by the cold weather, as feeding has been resorted to in some sections and unless better growing conditions soon prevail feeding will become general there."

of the reporters state there is plenty of hay at the present time, but only 25 per cent report a surplus. Conditions vary widely in the different counties regarding hay stocks. 50 per cent reporting no surplus whatever with fairly stiff prices.

"The inquiry as to prices on the ranch was continued and an improvement is noted in every district for all classes of cattle."

increased from 20 to 30 cents per 100; cows from 25 to 50 cents, and calves from 20 to 30 cents per 100. The increase per 100 in the price of sheep was for wethers from 50 to 65 cents; ewes from 25 to 60 cents and lambs from 50 to 100 cents."

7 Cents Until April 1

The seven-cent price for standard prison bags, just fixed by the board of directors of San Quentin prison, will remain in effect until April 1, according to Warden James A. Johnston. Warden Johnston says: "The prison bag is standard size 22x38 inches and the price of seven cents will remain in effect until April 1."

1, 1922, in order to give growers a opportunity to calculate on their crops and to figure the number of bags they will need.

"After April 1st, 1922, the price subject to change, as the law provides that after that date the board of prison directors may sell the bag at such price and in such quantities and under such conditions as to them may seem proper.

"From now until April 1st, 1932, affidavit showing that the purchaser is a bona-fide consumer will be required to protect the growers and distribute the prison bags fairly. Order blanks may be secured by corresponding with the undersigned. "It is important that orders be sent in as soon as possible so as to get the benefit of the present low price."

Woolen Mill Wage Will Not Be Reduced

ANDOVER, Mass., Feb. 3.—William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company, in a statement, reassured the company's employees that their wages would not be reduced this season. "There will be no reduction of wages this season so far as the American Woolen Company is concerned," he said. "There is nothing to justify it. We would be more justified in increasing the price of cloth than in reducing wages."

NO. 11.
 Section 202 of the revenue act of 1921, passed on the basis of ascertaining taxable loss or deductible gain in the sale or other disposition of property. The act provides that this shall be the basis for three exceptions. The first is that in the case of property which should be included in the taxable income of the donor or transferor, the value shall be the basis for the taxable income of the donee or transferee. For example, if a person bought a stock for $100 and sold it for $120, the gain of $20 would be taxable to the donor. If the stock was sold for $80, the loss of $20 would be deductible from the donor's income. The second exception is that in the case of property which is sold for less than its cost, the loss shall be deductible from the donor's income. The third exception is that in the case of property which is sold for more than its cost, the gain shall be taxable to the donee or transferee.

PROPERTY EXCHANGES.
 Subdivision 202 of the revenue act deals primarily with the exchange of property for property. It is much more than a simple exchange of property for property. It is a sale of property for property. The act provides that in the case of a sale of property for property, the gain or loss shall be taxable to the seller. For example, if a person sold a stock for $100 and bought another stock for $120, the gain of $20 would be taxable to the seller. If the stock was sold for $80, the loss of $20 would be deductible from the seller's income.

SALES PRIOR TO 1913.

BUSINESS FINANCE

THERE seems to be no "saturation" limit in the west for good investments, as instance the phenomenal sale of the $7,000,000 worth of California and Hawaiian Sugar Refining corporation bonds, which went on the market yesterday and were quoted at a premium today. It may be explained that $3,500,000 of the issue was taken by the stockholders in the refining corporation, leaving a similar sum for the general public. It was this amount that was "digested" so readily that two hours after the sale opened there was not a single bond available by any of the syndicate handling them, except Blyth, Witter & Company, who promoted the business and two hours later this house put the sign of "all sold out."

The sale was equally successful in Portland, Seattle and Los Angeles and is significant as marking the demand for investment in Hawaiian sugar properties. The sale is one of three marking the first large financial promotions for island enterprises in several years, the other two being the bond issues of $2,500,000 of the Theo. H. Davies & Company, Limited, and the $3,000,000 issue of the American Factors, Limited. All three have been brought out within a few weeks by the same firm and all have been marked successes, the Davies bonds opening at 99 1/2 and selling at par.

"The demand for these California and Hawaiian bonds was so keen that we could have sold several hundred thousand extra right here in the East-bay region," said Lowell E. Hardy, Eastbay manager of the Blyth, Witter organization. "They scarcely lasted long enough for the firm to thoroughly get acquainted with them."

400 MILLIONS FOR NEW BUILDING IN WESTERN STATES

Industrial Survey of Editor of Technical Magazine Gives Big Figures.

That the West, with its $200 industrial plants, is the largest source of capital plants in the United States for the year 1921, has escaped the major effects of the post-war depression and is facing one of the brightest periods in its history, the declaration of Robert S. Sibley, editor of the Journal of Commerce, a survey of the industrial situation.

The index of better conditions as shown in the program for 1922 according to Sibley, are the road construction situation, street repair jobs and the building program. Contracts have been let for $100,000,000 in new highways in the eleven western states and street improvements to the extent of an additional $100,000,000 will be undertaken during 1922 in the same area.

Estimates of the building program for the year show that more than $400,000,000 will be spent, including the survey showed commercial and office buildings, 40 per cent for homes and 20 per cent for industrial construction.

DEMANDS FOR POWER. The industrial survey undertaken by the Journal of Commerce, which included 521 industrial plants of all classes of which complete reports were received from 1918. Despite the post-war depression, the survey showed that the demand for power in the West is increasing at a rapid rate. The capacity of 500,000 horsepower, which was second with 180,000 horsepower, while the preparation of products, including canneries, food mills and packing plants used 101,000 horsepower.

California stands first among the western states in the number of its large plants, something over 2200 being included in the survey. These industries are led by food products which number more than 400 plants. The chemical industry is represented by 194 factories, cement and clay products by 13.

WASHINGTON IS SECOND. Washington ranks second in the number of large plants with nearly a dozen of the largest in the country. Its industries are led by food products, which number more than 400 plants. The chemical industry is represented by 194 factories, cement and clay products by 13.

Oregon reports 621 industrial plants, of which 100 are large. Its industries are led by food products, which number more than 400 plants. The chemical industry is represented by 194 factories, cement and clay products by 13.

CHARGED WITH 51
THEFTS, PRISONER
CONFESSES MANYS. F. Burglar Accused of Most Robberies Ever Laid to One Person

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—Confessing to the commission of scores of burglaries in San Francisco during the last six days and accused of fifty-one separate crimes, Charles Howard, 27 years old, made a detailed statement of his career of thievery to Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson today. Captured a week ago through the alertness of Morris Lossman, jeweler, of 2352 Mission street, Howard remained for seven days in the city prison before he was taken to the city jail. He was definitely with more crimes than have ever before been charged to one defendant in this city. Detectives have traced Howard's movements all over the city and finally were successful in forcing a confession from him today.

"I have committed more crimes in this city than I can possibly remember," Howard declared in his signed statement. "When I could not get money I invariably tried to wreck the place. I was so disappointed at finding a coin at the Great Western grocery on Fillmore street that I smashed eggs all over the place."

The police so far have connected Howard with the ransacking of Shumate's drug store, Sutter and Division streets; six stores and five houses on Clement street; seven stores on Haight street; one store on California street; and six stores and houses in the Mission district. They are making a list of the crimes and it is said that the total number will reach fifty-one.

According to Howard's confession, he invariably paid his loot for a trifling sum. Nearly $100 worth of valuable taken by him were disposed of for a few hundred.

Lossman, the jeweler, was awakened by some one manipulating the catch on his door. He telephoned the Mission station. Officers arrived and captured Howard, who is slightly deaf. In one of his burglaries in the Mission district a citizen fired several shots at him. He told the officers today that he had heard none of them.

ELKS' LODGE IN SAN LEANDRO IS PETITIONED FOR

SAN LEANDRO, Feb. 9.—A branch organization of the Elks' lodge in San Leandro may become an actuality according to proponents of the local drive. The matter has been under discussion for a long time, arising shortly before the war. Headed by Dr. L. H. Michaels, James Hendrickson, W. W. Bradley, Henry Seraphim, W. F. Gannon and E. G. Ronch, the movement has aroused much interest in San Leandro, and it is stated by those interested that there is hardly a doubt but that it will be successful.

At the present time a petition is being passed among those interested, the required number of names necessary being not less than fifty and not more than one hundred. To date forty names of male residents of San Leandro have been obtained.

It has been the desire of many San Leandrians to organize a local Elks' lodge, but the matter had never come to a head.

KRUPPS RECEIVE
CHILEAN RIGHTS
TO IRON AND COALHuge Concession in South
American Province Brings Out Many Colonists.

A huge concession, covering one of the richest and most productive provinces of the republic of Chile, has been turned over to the German firm of Krupp & Co. for the purposes of colonization and for the development of its mineral wealth. Word of this important international "coup," in which German enterprise registers its most noteworthy success since the armistice, is brought here by J. T. McCellan, former passenger agent of the International Mercantile Marine Company in San Francisco, who has just supplied the Chilean government railways with $2,000,000 worth of American coal.

Discussing this latest development in the field of international enterprise, McCellan, who is visiting relatives at 2255 Eighth avenue, said today: "The firm of Krupp & Co., which amassed its millions in the war, is now turning its attention to the development of the iron and coal fields of Chile. The Germans, who are all skilled coal miners, steel workers and engineers, are being sent to Chile in large numbers, but even in place here in the first ranks of coal and iron producing and manufacturing countries. Already the German settlers are coming in by the thousands, bringing their wives and children with them."

McCellan states that American enterprise is not idle in Chile either. He says that the Westinghouse Electric Company recently obtained from President Arturo Alessandri a contract for the electrification of the railway from Valparaiso to Santiago, and that the company plans to obtain its power from the snow of the Andes. McCellan states that the Westinghouse Company won the contract in sharp competition, after defeating its French, Belgian and Swiss rivals.

FEDERATION UNLIKELY.

Discussing reports of a South American federation and of federation between Chile and Peru, McCellan said: "A federation of the states of South America is unthinkable, because there is too much hostility. Moreover, Brazil speaks Portuguese and the other republics Spanish. The only working combination seems to be that of the A. B. C. of Argentina, Brazil and Chile, which only serves certain general purposes."

Mayor Urges
Go-to-Theater
Week for City

The action of the mayor follows several weeks of preparation on the part of the local theater managers for a big feast of entertainment to be presented here.

Plans have been made by the individual managers to present unusual bills at their respective houses as a mark of appreciation for the support the patrons have given them. In line with this policy the mayor has issued the following proclamation to the residents of the Eastbay district:

To the People of Oakland: The managers of the principal theaters have combined their interests to produce one of the most interesting events ever held in Oakland—a "Go-to-the-Theater Week" during the week of February 12 to 18, 1922.

The entertainment that is promised is to show to our people the appreciation of these theaters for the splendid patronage they have been receiving from the public and to repay to some extent the support the public has given.

Elaborate plans are being made and the managers promise unusually excellent programs for this particular week. Every theater in Oakland is represented in the undertaking and is planning some special feature. The merchants and business men of our city and many of our civic organizations are also cooperating in the general plan.

Our people are always on the alert to enjoy any special event of this nature, and I am sure that they will appreciate the opportunity being presented and that "Go-to-the-Theater Week" in Oakland will be a splendid success.

U. S. TO SPEND
$1,400,000 ON HIGHWAYS

The twelve highway routes in California running through or adjoining "major" portions of coast will be improved this year with the $1,400,000 appropriated by the government for better roads in this state, are as follows: Crescent City route to the Oregon line, Redding to Alameda, Mariposa to El Portal, Bakersfield to Santa Maria, San Diego to El Centro, Placerville to Lake Tahoe, Big Pine to Oso, Bakersfield to Walker's Pass, Red Bluff to Susanville, Auburn to the Nevada line, Feather River route and Trinity lateral.

This decision was reached yesterday by the state highway commissioners, who met with Manuel Valance, constable of San Leandro. When the unusually cold spell hit San Leandro and the entire bay region about three weeks ago it also hit Valance, resulting in the temporary transfer of his official duties to his two assistants, Joaquin Silva and William Roaf. Valance has been confined to his home for the past three weeks as a result.

Illness of Mayor
And Commissioner
Blocks Business

Despite the presence of a large number of East Oaklanders to argue the proposed closing of East Eleventh street, the City Council this morning deferred the matter till February 17.

Other important matters were deferred as Mayor Davis and Commissioner Carter were both absent on sick leave. These matters included the purchase of the Kendall property, discussion postponed to Tuesday; the improvement of Jackson street, deferred to February 16, and the second reading of the proposed new traffic ordinance to February 17.

The Council by resolution ordered the improvement of Walnut street from Ninetieth to Ninety-sixth avenues.

An ordinance exempting certain property on the Harrison boulevard from the single family residence zone was passed to print. This is to rectify a boundary of the district.

By request of the Citizens' Emergency Relief committee for the relief of the unemployed, city officials will sell tickets for the benefit at the Auditorium February 20.

A report of the poundmaster for January shows a collection of 185 dogs, 4 horses, 1 goat and 7 cats. Today's Council session was held with Commissioner W. J. Baccus presiding. The Council finally adjourned out of respect to the late Walter J. Hesse of the Civil Service Board.
